REPORT OF THE AUDITOR

QUINCY, MASS., March 1, 1924.

To the City Councillors, Quincy, Mass.

In accordance with the ordinance of the city, I submit the annual report of my department, showing in detail the receipts and expenditures of each department.

Also several statements showing the financial condition of the city at the close of the financial year, December 31, 1923.

HENRY O. FAIRBANKS,
City Auditor.

IN COUNCIL

MARCH 5, 1923.

Ordered:

That the several sums named herein be and are hereby appropriated for the payment of the expenses of the city of Quincy for the financial year beginning January 1, 1923, and ending December 31, 1923, to be expended by and under the direction of the several officers or boards as herein designated.

That the appropriation for bonds, interest, water maintenance and clerical be paid from the water receipts.

REPORT OF CITY SOLICITOR

HON. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor of the City of Quincy.

SIR: — I submit herewith my report as City Solicitor for the year 1923.

I entered my appearance for the city in all lawsuits pending against it when I took office, and have effected settlements of a number of them on such terms as I considered wise and just in the light of the evidence and the law applicable thereto. A few new suits were brought against the municipality during the year, which are still pending.

A number of small claims which were made against the city were adjusted without litigation.

As occasion required from time to time throughout the year, I advised the Mayor and the City Council, both orally and in written opinions, on numerous questions, and have given advice to the heads of departments in relation to their official problems, whenever requested.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN D. MACKAY,
City Solicitor.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF WOODWARD FUND AND PROPERTY

QUINCY, MASS., January 1, 1924.

Hon. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor, Quincy, Mass.

DEAR SIR:— The report of the Treasurer of the Woodward Fund and Property is herewith submitted for the year ending December 31, 1923.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES A. HADLOCK,
Treasurer, Woodward Fund and Property.

Traffic

Effective handling of traffic is demanding greater effort each year, and with the enormous and continuous growth in the automobile industry, it surely means more congestion in our streets and more danger to both the motorists and pedestrians. It is a matter that every interested person realizes, that the time has arrived for serious consideration in Quincy, the main and popular route to the South Shore. As this increasing vehicle traffic continues, so will the demand from time to time grow for more regulations and laws to meet conditions. A dozen laws, however, with which all are familiar and which are strictly enforced, are better than a thousand written only on the statute books. There are two classes of traffic laws, — those which provide for ordinary regulation, making for efficient use of our streets, and those which aim at the wilful violator.

It is probably better that, as is usually the practice, some leniency should be shown in the enforcement of the first class, but the second class calls for only drastic enforcement.

In Massachusetts alone, the year 1923 closed with 222 children killed, there being 220 actually killed in the street, while nearly 5,000 children were injured. Of this number, Quincy had 8 fatal accidents.

It is my belief that proper instructions by a traffic officer or other trained person given to the children in our schools would bring commendable results. I hope that arrangements can be made very soon for such course of instructions, for it cannot be denied that in a majority of cases, after investigations and court inquiries, the operators of the vehicles involved are held blameless. This fact alone indicates that education for the children in their conduct on the highway is important.

Unfortunately, reports from police officials of many cities show an alarming increase in the number of intoxicated motorists, a decided menace on the roads. Our own city has not altogether escaped him, as the following figures will show. There were nineteen such persons arrested in 1920; in 1921 there were thirty-six; in 1922 it jumped to fifty-nine; while 1923 resulted in seventy arrests, of which forty-three were non-residents driving through our city.

Parking in our busy business sections is now a matter of serious concern and has for a long time been cause for much discussion and agitation. I have been interested in a report made by a committee selected by the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, and believe a gradual adoption of their suggestions will bring great relief and valuable results for merchants, pedestrians and automobilists. For some years it has been generally admitted that a parking time limit should be adopted during certain hours on Hancock Street between Dimmock and School Streets. This opinion was shared by myself and traffic officers whose opinions, gained by experience, should be considered expert. Necessary careful consideration was given to the subject by our department without losing sight of the responsibility that was ours. Nor did we overlook the interest of the merchants, the safety of pedestrians and the possibility of a hurried dash of cumbersome, but rapidly moving fire apparatus into this busy section, and the danger of inaccessibility to hydrants and spots requiring the firemen's services.

In consequence, a time limit for parking on Fridays and Saturdays after 4 P.M. was established and has presented the expected satisfactory results.

During 1923, when weather conditions permitted, three motorcycle officers have been constantly riding about the city and have found a lion's share of the intoxicated drivers who were arrested. Their value on the road was well established by that work alone. However, their services were proven very valuable in many other ways, particularly on hurried calls for various causes, and their daily examination of houses which had been listed as closed for the vacation season. Because of the one day in eight law, however, and the fact that one is usually assigned to cover our chauffeurs' days off, we are left with two, and frequently only one, motorcycles on the road at one time. For this reason, I hope to place a more adequate fleet of cycles in commission very soon. Because of the large number of vehicles passing over our streets at night, at least two cycle officers should be out at the same time. Until then, it will be necessary to change the hours of the present cycle squad to afternoon and evening hours.

Our plan of tagging automobiles in cases of minor violations has been continued, in hopes of educating persons not familiar with our traffic rules. Few persons are required to report to the station a second time, and to date, those who offend a second and third time are local residents, who should know better and be willing to co-operate.

Liquor Law

The demands for constant vigilance in this branch of our work becomes more apparent each day.

Although our authority to act seems more limited than ever, the present liquor squad have proven their capability.

In almost all cities and towns the liquor squads are being increased in numbers, but conditions in Quincy are such that we have no cause for alarm from the bootlegger or his go-between.

Officer George F. Phillips is in charge of this work, and no liquor officer has been feared more by this type of law-breaker. His best and personal efforts are put into the work with the officer or officers assigned with him. During the long and irregular hours required, he himself is on the alert, gathering necessary evidence.

In spite of the limited authority under which the liquor squad is working, I expect better results than ever.

Detective Bureau

Like officers assigned to liquor law enforcement, a successful detective or investigator expects long and very irregular working hours.

Sergeants Avery and Doran, who for years have been detailed as Acting Inspectors, are two such men. The cases assigned to them are usually discouraging at the beginning, and often lack even the slightest clew. I hope that before long they will receive the reward they have worked so hard for.

A partial report of their work for 1923, which follows, shows the reward of effort and hours put in:

Investigations made	791
Court attendance	592
Value of lost and stolen property recovered	$10,380

Discipline

It has been my aim to enforce rigid but fair discipline, which is necessarily required in a police department. The necessity of such a rule is well known to every faithful and ambitious officer. To some it may seem that undue emphasis is placed on some of the everyday work, or the so-called minor or small matters, such as many rules that are found among the city ordinances and traffic rules.

Much of the officers' efficiency, however, depends upon his enforcing the so-called trivial things as well as he can, which makes him better prepared to handle the unusual emergency that is sure to present itself.

It has been shown time and again that no organization can remain successful without a system, nor can a police department successfully go on without a system of leadership.

My efforts to bring about a merit system, I believe, has been successful, and the growing standard of efficiency meets the approval of the department members. There is sufficient evidence to satisfy me that the officer who shirks his duty, or misbehaves, soon finds himself a victim of his comrades' contempt and disapproval.

In making my report for the year of 1923, I have just cause to be proud of the Quincy Police, who have given evidence of that intelligence and ambition necessary to maintain their good reputation among our citizens.

Equipment

To-day, the department is better equipped for emergencies than ever, and my recommendations for further expenditures the coming year will be few.

Our automobiles are in good condition, and, excepting our Reo auxiliary patrol wagon, should require little overhauling. The three Indian police motorcycles have been used continuously during the summer and fall of 1923, and with a slight tuning up should render good satisfactory service another year. To attempt a third year with these machines, which at times must be driven at a very high rate of speed, I believe is unsafe and unfair to the operator, and false economy.

Our signal system, however, may be expected to necessitate quite an expenditure at any time, being old and in use since 1909, and now causing us considerable trouble in correctly recording. It is hoped that the mechanical parts will stand up until a new headquarters is provided.

Recommendations

Again I recommend that consideration be given to the red light notification system. This is acknowledged to be a valuable asset toward efficient policing by police authorities throughout the country.

With the growth of our department, the wholly unsuitable, crowded and unsanitary quarters brings conditions to an unfair and disgusting point.

Conclusion

To the members of the department I extend my thanks for efforts and services rendered.

To all who have so cheerfully given advice and assistance I assure my appreciation, and promise our best efforts to merit their confidence in the future.

ALFRED W. GOODHUE,
Chief of Police.

During the year ending December 31, 1923, there were 414 interments in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

By request of Post 88 of the G. A. R., and the order of the City Council, the Soldiers' Monument was removed from its original location, and erected in the G. A. R. lot on the Sea Street front of the cemetery, adjacent to the lots dedicated to the American Legion and Spanish War Veterans.

In the Hancock Cemetery there was one interment and three removals. A memorial tablet has been erected, dedicated to the soldiers of the Revolution who are buried there, and as there can be no further interments, it is hoped that sufficient funds will be available to preserve and improve the grounds.

Respectfully yours,

W. W. MITCHELL,
Manager of Public Burial Places.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WELFARE

JANUARY 1, 1924.

To His Honor, the Mayor of Quincy.

The Commissioner of Public Welfare submits the following report of the Public Welfare Department for the year ending December 31, 1923.

The Department has granted aid to 202 families during the year, and has received applications for aid from about 300. Many cases where no aid was granted were needy through lack of employment by the wage earners of the families, and instead of recording the persons as paupers by granting aid, through the hearty co-operation of the business men of the city, employment was furnished, and public aid became unnecessary. The unemployment situation was not as bad as the previous year, there being only twenty-five applicants for aid for this reason. Desertion, sickness and reduced wages are the cause of the majority of cases, and the relief granted is only temporary.

Considerable hardship was experienced by many on account of the fuel shortage, but through the efficient work of Mr. John Scott, Fuel Administrator, who co-operated with this department and allotted fuel to the especially needy cases, we were able to get over the winter with a minimum of suffering. Wood was provided to make up for the lack of coal, and supplied the necessary warmth to many needy homes.

Mothers' aid has been granted to 32 families during the past year, and all these cases are supervised and visited by the State authorities, as well as by the city. Rentals are generally increasing, and moderately priced tenements are very scarce. Many are in poor sanitary condition and are in need of repair. The cases under mothers' aid are practically entirely supported from public funds.

We have had 82 cases referred to us by the Police Department and the various private welfare organizations, and have prosecuted 8 cases in court, where it was found that no other means could be taken toward settlement of the problem. We have given advice and assistance on many matters of public welfare, and have referred some of the applicants to a private organization, where the aid required was not to be extensive.

During the year we have completely renovated the City Home, and have installed many new and modern appliances which are the source of a greater degree of comfort to the aged or infirm persons who depend on the city for their sustenance.

Through the use of the Maxwell coupé which was purchased for the use of this department it has been possible to give prompt attention to needy cases, and also to visit more frequently the homes of persons being aided. Over 500 visits were made by the Commissioner last year.

Recommendation is made that a visitor, preferably a woman, be appointed to visit in the various homes and supervise and advise those under our care. More cases could receive frequent visits, and the Department could keep in closer touch with those whom we serve. All cases should be visited at least once a month, and many oftener.

REPORT OF ASSESSING DEPARTMENT

QUINCY, MASS., January 1, 1924.

To His Honor the Mayor and the Honorable City Council.

The following is respectfully submitted as the report of the Assessing Department for the year 1923:

Organization

The Board organized on January 5, 1923, with Edward J. Fegan, chairman, J. Winthrop Pratt and John G. Bestgen. Mr. Bestgen resigned May 31, 1923, and Mrs. Hattiemay Thomas was appointed in his stead June 1, 1923. Mrs. Hattiemay Thomas resigned on December 15, 1923, to become assistant city clerk, and Victor J. Emery was appointed in her stead December 17, 1923.

1922 Valuations and Rate

When the Board took office there was an existing tax rate of $36.20 on the valuation of $53,728,550 real estate, and $7,184,055 personal property, making a total valuation of $60,912,605. The Board, believing that this tax rate reflected undervaluation of properties, both real and personal, throughout the city, undertook a complete revaluation of all properties in the city, real and personal, on April 1, 1923, and was actually engaged in this field work up to August 1, 1923.

1923 Valuations and Rate

The result of this canvass showed a valuation of the city on April 1, 1923, as determined by the assessors, as follows:

REAL ESTATE

Value of buildings	$46,566,950 00
Value of land	25,725,600 00
Value of land and buildings	$72,292,550 00

PERSONAL PROPERTY

Value of personal property (other than bank stock shares now exempt)	10,280,275 00
Total valuation of the city on taxable real estate and personal property April 1, 1923	$82,572,825 00

The tax levy for 1923, as submitted to the assessors, was made up as follows:

Budget for 1923	$1,890,566 93
Special budget	3,233 10
City debt	234,200 00
City debt interest	42,769 00

Norfolk County Hospital, interest	2,610 00
		<hr/>
		107,685 35
Total gross levy		$2,903,860 02

This gross tax levy was reduced by the following items:

Income from State	$135,814 86
Poll taxes	72,700 00
Premiums on bonds	8,469 25
Miscellaneous receipts	341,807 68
		<hr/>
		558,791 79
Net tax levy for 1923		$2,345,068 23

This net tax levy of $2,345,068.23 to be levied on a total valuation of $82,572,825 gave us a tax rate for 1923 of $28.40 on each $1,000 of the valuation of real estate and personal property.

The valuation was also increased by omitted real estate assessments, levied December 19, 1923, of $11,250, making the total valuation of the city upon which all taxes were assessed for the year 1923, when all assessments had been made, $82,584,075.

Because of assessments levied in 1922 on the so-called government houses at Quincy Point against the occupants thereof, or the holders of agreements to buy the same, which assessments were contested, it was necessary for the assessors to write into the levy of 1923 the amount of $37,252.68 to provide for the abatement of 75 per cent of these assessments, the city having compromised these disputed and doubtful assessments on the basis of collecting 25 per cent and abating 75 per cent thereof. If this had not been necessary, the tax rate for 1923 would have been 45 cents less, or a rate of $28.

By the election of our National Bank, under chapter 487, section 2, of the Acts of 1923 (now General Laws, chapter 63, section 10A), to be taxed upon its net income, an amount equal to $12\frac{1}{2}$ per cent instead of at the local rate of taxation on the fair cash value of its shares of stock, the city received \$1,238.61 as against the tax received in 1922 of \$2,993.02 on a valuation of \$82,680. In other words, the city in 1923 had its personal property valuation reduced \$82,680, and its revenue from this source reduced \$1,754.41, by this election of our National Bank.

Taxes Committed to Collector

On October 29, 1923, the Board committed to August N. Weeden, Collector, a warrant for taxes, as follows:—

Real estate tax	$2,053,108 42
Personal property tax	291,959 81
Main sewer apportionments	8,035 82
Main sewer apportionments, interest	1,987 03

Street betterments, interest	3,399 31
Particular sewer apportionments	2,004 52
Particular sewer apportionments, interest	224 55
Sidewalk apportionments	1,045 61
Sidewalk apportionments, interest	347 59
Total	<hr/> $2,370,334 36

On December 19, 1923, the Board committed to August N. Weeden, Collector, warrant for omitted taxes, as follows:—

Real estate tax	$319 50

Automobile Registration Lists

The Board received from the Tax Commissioner's office in 1923 a list of all motor cars in the city of Quincy which were registered between January 1, 1923, and April 1, 1923. This list has been a great help to the Board in checking up the cars returned by the assistant assessors. There are now over 3,700 automobiles assessed in this city.

Assistant Assessors

The assistant assessors who served during the year for the listing of polls and certain tangible personal property were as follows:

Ward 1, Precinct 1.	John A. Weeden.
Ward 1, Precinct 2.	Fred MacDonald.
Ward 1, Precinct 3.	Thomas J. Dwyer.

REPORT OF DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

JANUARY 1, 1924.

To the Honorable Mayor and City Council.

I have the honor to make the following report of the transactions of the Health Department for the year ending December 31, 1923.

There were reported to this office during the year 510 deaths; 31 of these deaths were accidental. The death rate per 1,000 persons was 9.56.

Infant Mortality

Sixty-one infants died before they were one year of age. The death rate per 1,000 was 46. Twenty-seven died between the age of one and nine years. This is an improvement on former years, but more attention must be given to children under one year of age. I would recommend an extra nurse for child welfare work. The clinics have grown so large that it takes nearly all the child welfare nurse's time in arranging clinic follow-up cases and records.

Hospital

The growing tendency of the expectant mother is a desire to go to the hospital for treatment. It is quite desirable and imperative that at least twenty-five more beds be added to the hospital for obstetric cases.

It is also essential that the hospital provide at least ten beds for infants and about fifteen beds for older children.

Comfort Station

Large numbers of people gather in different parts of the city in the park and squares. There is a great deal of suffering and discomfort on account of lack of proper comfort stations. The most urgent need of a comfort station is in Quincy Square and the various playgrounds.

Foodstuffs

Milk. — A very rigid inspection of milk and its by-products has been carried on this year.

The standard of milk has been generally very good, and we have had excellent co-operation from the producers and dealers. Constructive suggestions have been faithfully observed. Many instances of souring of milk in the past was due to the retailers not properly icing the milk. Improved cooling facilities have been installed in various dairies and stores, and milk on delivery averages about 48°.

A new regulation will be in effect soon requiring the pasteurization of milk or the sale of raw milk only from tuberculin-tested cows. The sale of raw milk from non-tested cows always carries the hazard of tubercle-infected milk. Although the effect of the regulation may not be manifested at once, it should go a long way towards the future protection of the general public, especially children.

Foods

The inspection of meats and provisions has been limited this year, but the Meat Inspector, although only a part-time man, has done excellent work. Great credit should be given to the local dealers who have taken an especial pride and effort to maintain a high standard of goods and a cleanly store. Without their co-operation we would be badly handicapped.

The department will be greatly benefited by the services of a full-time Inspector of Meats and Provisions. Especially is this necessary for the itinerant and out-of-town vendors who are selling within the city limits meats, fish, fruit and vegetables. It is to the credit of a sound-thinking buying public that they patronize very little the itinerant vendor, but rather some local well-known dealer.

Garbage

It has been the earnest endeavor of this department to abate as much as possible any nuisances that might arise from garbage, and bi-weekly collections of garbage have been made at all residences. Stores, hospital and restaurants have had almost daily collections. The disposal of garbage is getting quite difficult at the present time. It has been the custom to sell to farmers or owners of out-of-town piggeries, but we find the volume is increasing daily, and in my opinion the only way to take care of it will be by the abandonment of the horse-drawn apparatus and the collection made by light garbage trucks. The disposal would be more readily solved, even though we had to cart it to some out-of-town piggeries.

Ashes and Rubbish

This year we maintained a weekly all-year-round collection of waste rubbish and ashes. It no doubt militated towards the lessening of fire hazards in homes, and made the city and residences more cleanly and healthy in appearance.

Sanitation

The Sanitary Inspector had a busy year recommending abolition of privies, extension of sewers, house connections and the cleaning of brooks. Many eyesores have been abolished and the rapid extension of the sewer to all parts of the city is advised.

The report of the Sanitary Inspector is appended. The health and prosperity of the city is more or less dependent on sanitation; successful industries; pure water; intelligent disposal of garbage, and waste material; sewerage systems; physical, mental and hygienic education; co-operation of different departments; co-operation of the general public; police surveillance in alcoholics, drug addicts and mental degenerates; fire protection by high-pressure systems, especially in industrial and business sections; rigid inspection of noxious trade employees; cleanliness of streets, halls, homes, churches and theatres; abolishment of the open brook and prevention of its contamination; stringent rules for the screening of all dwellings and places where food is sold; and draining stagnant pools. Especial attention should be given to rotting of fruits in back yards and orchards.

Communicable Diseases

The treatment and care of communicable diseases is very difficult to control. The methods to be used should be: (1) try and protect them with some known preventive; (2) strict quarantining affected person, contacts and suspected carriers; (3) rigid school inspection, especially of absentees; (4) education of public to the dangers of spreading disease; (5) telephone reports of physicians so that an early isolation of patients may be effected.

Many cases of mild scarlet fever and diphtheria are not reported because families are too poor or they think children are not sick enough to need a doctor.

Great credit is due to the personnel of the Health Department. Every one has given his best endeavor for the improvement of the department and the health of the city. I wish to extend my thanks and congratulations to the entire personnel of the department.

Many of the personnel of the department are underpaid. I would recommend an investigation and revision of the salaries of the entire personnel of the department.

At this time I wish to thank His Honor the Mayor, the City Councilors and other city officials for their excellent co-operation and courtesies during the year.

Yours very truly,

M. T. SWEENEY, M.D.,
Health Commissioner.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

JANUARY 1, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — I hereby submit the annual report of the Department of Health, for the year ending Dec. 31, 1923.

The personnel of the department is as follows:

Commissioner of Health and Inspector of Milk	Dr. M. T. Sweeney
Superintendent	Thomas G. Smith
Clerk	Verna M. Kelley
Sanitary Inspector	A. A. Robertson
Assistant Milk Inspector	James O'Dowd
Foreman of the Ash and Garbage Collection	James Brogan
Plumbing Inspector	J. J. Keniley
Inspector of Meats and Provisions	Howard O. Rogers
Dispensary Physician	Dr. C. J. Lynch
Child Welfare Physician	Dr. E. B. FitzGerald
Venereal Disease Physician	Dr. E. E. Smith
Bacteriologist	Dr. E. E. Smith
Tuberculosis Nurse	Lillian T. Coleman, R.N.
Contagious Nurse	Ruth W. Bean, R.N.
Child Welfare Nurse	Nettie H. Denton, R.N.
Inspector of Animals and Slaughtering	Dr. J. H. Gardiner

The year 1923 has been a busy one for this department. The city is growing very fast, and the added population must necessarily make more work for this department. The recommendation of the Health Commissioner ought to receive serious consideration, particularly as regards trucks for our collection of garbage. The present equipment is old and needs constant repair, which is a source of great expense, and it is only a question of a short period of time when the wagons and harnesses will have to be replaced.

I wish to extend my thanks to the Health Commissioner and other members of the department for their efficient co-operation in all matters pertaining to the department. Appended you will find the report of the various inspectors and nurses; also my report of diseases and deaths reported for the year 1923.

Respectfully submitted,

THOMAS G. SMITH,
Superintendent of Health Department.

REPORT OF FOREMAN

JANUARY 18, 1924.

Dr. MICHAEL T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — I herewith submit my annual report for the year 1923.

REPORT OF SANITARY INSPECTOR

JANUARY 7, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR: — I hereby submit my report for the year ending December 31, 1923.

Inspections made	1,095
Violations	550
Complaints received	176
Notices sent	503

Vaults abolished during year:

By connection to sewer	28
By connection to cesspool	29
Premises torn down	2

Total 59

Premises connected to sewer after notice 48

Hearings:

New regulations	1
Stable applications	3

Applications for permits refused:

Stable	3
Piggery	1

Permits issued:

Poultry	6
Bottling	8

Bakeries closed by order of department	1
Restaurants closed by order of department	1

Court cases:

Obstructing public water course	Verdict, not guilty.
Breaking quarantine, two cases	Verdicts of guilty, and cases placed on file.

In addition to the duties as Sanitary Inspector I took charge of the office during the illness of the Superintendent, and did the clerical work for four months, during which time there was no clerk connected with the department; also, I filled in on the Foreman's job during one week of the vacation period.

Since October 13 I have assisted at 21 Schick clinics by keeping the records, and during the entire year I kept the six culture stations supplied with materials. This work has taken on an average of six hours a week.

In conclusion, I would respectfully make two recommendations:

First. — The public health demands that all privy vaults in the city (about 650) be abolished. As we cannot order a privy to be done away with unless the premises are located on a street in which there is a public sewer, and as there are now less than fifty such premises, it is essential, if more privies are to be done away with during 1924, that the public sewer be extended on the streets where there is now no sewer. Especial attention, as during 1923, should be given to Ward 4, where over 50 per cent of the privies are located.

Second. — At the present time there is not an ice-cream parlor or soft-drink establishment in the city where the glasses and dishes are properly sterilized after each use. The utensils are merely dipped in soapy water which in some cases is warm, usually cold, and then rinsed in cold water. As proper sterilization is practically an impossibility, I would recommend that a regulation be adopted requiring the use of paper dishes and glasses, and that the same be destroyed after using.

A. A. ROBERTSON,
Sanitary Inspector.

The prices of meats and foodstuffs at the present time are some lower than they were the first of the year. Poultry in general was very much lower for the holiday trade than a year ago, which enabled our dealers to sell the best quality at less price.

First grade of heavy beef has not been plentiful this year on account of the high market.

Fish is sold by a large percentage of stores where meat is handled. In such cases inspections must be made more frequently. Many small blocks and stores have been built in many sections of our city, which has made an increase of stores, markets and foodshops.

More inspections have been made this year than ever before. Much time and attention have been given to seeing that all foodshops and markets are clean in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Health Department.

Respectfully submitted,

HOWARD ROGERS,
Inspector of Meats and Provisions.

REPORT OF CONTAGIOUS DISEASE NURSE

JANUARY 1, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:— I respectfully submit herewith my report for communicable diseases for the year 1923.

There was a total of 1,068 cases of communicable diseases reported during the year, as follows:

Diphtheria	148
Scarlet fever	314
Measles	152
Whooping cough	221
Mumps	162
Chicken pox	53
Typhoid fever	13
Anterior poliomyelitis	2
Venereal	1
Ophthalmia neonatorum	2

There were only 7 deaths, as follows:

Diphtheria	4
Scarlet fever	1
Whooping cough	1
Mumps	1

Diphtheria

There were 148 cases of diphtheria in the city during the year. This number includes the "carriers."

All members of the families, and as far as possible all contacts, are cultured in each case.

In this way many carriers are found.

These cases were scattered over the different sections of the city.

There were 4 deaths resulting, in each case the child being five years old or under.

Scarlet Fever

There were 314 cases of scarlet fever reported, with only 1 death.

Most of the cases were of a very mild type, and for this reason in many instances the first case was not recognized until a second or third case appeared.

There were probably others that were never recognized.

Failure to obey quarantine rules was due in most cases to this light type of the disease.

The cases were well scattered over the city, no one section being affected.

Measles

Only 152 cases of measles (a marked decrease over the year 1922) with no deaths for 1923, against 3 deaths for the year previous.

Whooping Cough

Two hundred and twenty-one cases reported, with 1 death. This is a much better record than 1922, when we had 5 deaths.

Whooping cough is one of the most difficult diseases to control, as it is transmitted so often before it is recognized; and, as many people do not consider it dangerous, they do not observe even the mildest quarantine.

Mumps

There were 162 cases reported, with 1 death.

Chicken Pox

There were only 53 cases reported. As a matter of fact, there were many times this number of cases in the city. Because children are not generally sick enough to have a physician the cases are not reported until they come to the Health Department for certificates to return to school.

Typhoid Fever

This year we had a marked increase in typhoid, there being 13 cases reported.

In one instance 5 cases was the result of contact in one family.

In another instance 3 cases became infected from the same source.

The five other cases could not be traced.

Venereal cases reported by the State Department and local board were followed up and investigated.

Thirty cases of diphtheria and 45 cases of scarlet fever were taken to the Homœopathic Hospital at Brighton.

Over 1,077 cultures for diphtheria, and 2 Widal's, were taken.

Convictions were obtained in two instances of failure to obey quarantine restrictions. Both cases were placed on file.

Approximately 2,392 home visits were made.

The report of the Schick clinics, which were started in October, on Wednesdays and Saturdays, at the Quincy Dispensary, is as follows:

Schick Clinics

Number of clinics held	23
Total attendance	868
Average attendance	33
Number of different persons in attendance	324
Number of persons receiving immunizing treatment without first having Schick test	81
Schick test given	243
Result of tests:
Positive	136
Negative	47
Combined	10
Pseudo	14
To be read 1/2 or 1/6/24	23
Persons who failed to report for reading after lapse of three weeks	13

Number who have received one immunizing dose	42
Number who have received two immunizing doses	30
Number who have received three immunizing doses	154
Total number of immunizing doses given	564
Failed to report for further treatment:
For reading	13
For first immunizing dose	1
For second immunizing dose	6
For third immunizing dose	2
Total	22
Percentage found susceptible	70
Percentage found not susceptible	30

No retests have been made as a six-month has not elapsed.

I wish to extend a word of appreciation to Dr. M. T. Sweeney, the Health Commissioner, and all members of the Health Department for their kindly assistance during the year; also a word of thanks to the physicians of Quincy, and to Dr. M. E. Drew, school physician, and the school nurses, for their co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH W. BEAN,
Contagion Nurse.

REPORT OF QUINCY DISPENSARY

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR DOCTOR:—The following is the report of the Quincy Dispensary for the year ending December 31, 1923.

Cases of tuberculosis	228
Arrested	49
Active	120
Hospital	59
New cases in 1923	96
Pulmonary	88
Other forms	8
Admitted to hospitals	43
Discharged from hospitals	30
Arrested	3
Against advice	15
Improved	12
Cases closed, addresses forwarded to state	46
Cases opened	30
Clinics held	51
Attendance to tuberculosis clinics	425
Visits by tuberculosis nurse	570
Examinations of contacts of tuberculosis	140
Moderately advanced	1
Suspicious	10

The moderately advanced cases were sent to Norfolk County Hospital and were discharged arrested.

The suspicious cases were returned periodically for examination until lungs were negative.

Deaths	46
At home	30
In hospitals	16

Fourteen of these cases came to our attention by death reports.

Undernourished Clinic during Year ending December 31, 1923

Clinics held	52
Attendance	403
Referred to Quincy City Hospital for treatment and advice	31
Referred to Dr. Harkins	7
Vaccinations	24
Medications provided	8

Milk tickets were freely supplied until weight increases were noted.

On comparing attendance at clinics one is struck by the increase, — 403 for 1923 compared with 276 in 1922. At first one might conclude that this indicated increase in tuberculosis cases in the city, but it may well and probably does mean the public realization of the necessity of early examination and treatment for conditions of "loss of weight," "general debility," etc., rather than wait for telltale cough, night sweats, etc., hence resulting in an early restoration to health rather than a later classification in the realm of pulmonary tuberculosis.

Of course the more generally the attendance is assumed the better from a health standpoint will be our results, and consequently the sooner we will stamp out the rightfully dreaded but equally preventable disease of tuberculosis.

In other words the more "suspects" and "contacts" we can enroll at the Tuberculosis clinic the sooner will obtain a permanent improvement in the health of the community.

Along this line very good results are being reached in the so-called undernourished clinic.

Here many undernourished and underweight children gather Saturday mornings, are examined, given advice and instruction, free milk and free medicine when indication tends to discovery of pretubercular conditions.

Any special eye, ear or throat defects are noted and referred to their proper channels for correction, and then the children return to clinic for further observation.

A new and very important feature has been added this past year, and that is, being able to refer all doubtful cases to Norfolk County Hospital for X-ray.

In this way hilum tuberculosis and other tubercular and pretubercular conditions are ascertained before other clinical signs are present.

Such children are classified, sent to Westfield or similar places, where the child's health and education are jointly looked after, and eventually restored to a condition of health and general usefulness.

Thus it is, — their birthright certificate of health is restored, — a condition given to most of us and desired by all.

In closing I wish to thank most cordially the willing effort of Miss Coleman, the Dispensary nurse, the physicians of Quincy and yourself for generous co-operation which tends to make the clinic more efficient in eradicating consumption and thus promoting the general welfare of the community.

Yours very truly,

C. J. LYNCH, M.D.,
Dispensary Physician.

REPORT OF CHILD WELFARE NURSE

JANUARY 1, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:—It is with pleasure that I, as child welfare nurse, submit my fourth annual report for the year ending December 31, 1923.

There were four clinics held weekly, as follows:

On Monday afternoons, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, Hall Place, West Quincy, there were 48 clinics held, with a total attendance of 498 babies being weighed, and an average of 11 babies weekly.

On Tuesday afternoons, at the Methodist Episcopal Church, Corner of Newbury Avenue and East Squantum Street, Atlantic, there were 51 clinics held, with an attendance of 932 babies weighed, an average of 18 weekly.

On Thursday afternoon, at the Quincy Dispensary, there were 50 clinics held, with a total attendance of 1,517 and an average attendance weekly of 30 babies.

On Friday afternoons at the Community Church, corner South and Washington Streets, Quincy Point, there were 48 clinics held, with a total attendance of 739 babies weighed, and an average attendance of 16 babies weekly.

The total number of clinics held were 197, and the total attendance was 3,686 babies weighed.

The attention of Dr. Edmund B. Fitzgerald was given untiringly to the Thursday afternoon clinics at the Quincy Dispensary, on High School Avenue, who made 708 examinations.

Of those examined, 28 were referred to family physicians or to other physicians for special treatment; 2 to the Boston Dispensary for surgical correction; 3 for X-ray and treatment of thymus; and 18 to the medical clinic for out-patient treatment. There were 26 sent to the Quincy City Hospital, tonsil and adenoid clinic, and 1 for X-ray of neck; 2 were sent to the venereal clinic at the Quincy Dispensary and 2 referred to the Overseers Department.

There were 395 visits made to babies, and 115 prenatal visits made.

There were 5 homes inspected for the boarding of infants, and 2 homes found for babies.

There were 8 deaths while under the supervision of the Child Welfare Department; 5 were from pneumonia, 1 from congenital syphilis, 1 from ileocolitis, and 1 from malnutrition.

The Wednesday afternoons and Saturday mornings since October 13, 1923, were spent at the Schick clinics, held at the Quincy Dispensary.

Below I will give you a record of the clinic increase since 1920.

CLINICS HELD	1920	1921	1922	1923
Ward 4, Monday, from 2-5 P.M. .	No clinics	47	385	498
Ward 6, Tuesday, from 2-5 P.M. .	No clinics	166	702	932
Ward 1, Thursday, from 2-5 P.M. .	539	1,220	1,011	1,517
Ward 2, Friday, from 2-5 P.M. .	No clinics	71	659	739
Total attendance	539	2,504	2,757	3,686

I wish at this time to thank for their many courtesies and their kindly assistance extended to me and to the child welfare clinics, the Health Department, Quincy City Hospital and other hospitals, physicians and private organizations, Public Welfare Department, and the pastors who gave us space in their churches in which to carry on the Monday, Tuesday and Friday clinics.

I also wish to thank Dr. Fitzgerald for the kindly interest in every baby, and the many hours spent so untiringly in their behalf, and I also extend my thanks to you for your interest in the Child Welfare Department and in those, our future citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

NETTIE H. DENTON, R.N.

REPORT OF VENEREAL DISEASE PHYSICIAN

JANUARY 15, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, M.D., Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:— Since the clinic was transferred from the City Hospital to the Dispensary in March, I have records of 152 visits to this clinic. I have tabulated the work done as follows:

Total number patients	18
Total number patients receiving treatment for gonorrhœa	2
Total number patients for Wassermann test only	4
Total number patients for diagnosis of gonorrhœa only	1
Total number patients discharged (no venereal disease)	2
Total number patients who have lapsed treatment	3
Total number patients receiving treatment for syphilis	11
Total number arsphenamine ("606") injections	102

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN E. SMITH, M.D.

REPORT OF BACTERIOLOGIST

JANUARY 28, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:— Since March, 1923, the work of the bacteriologist has been limited to the bacteriological and chemical examination of milk and ice cream.

During this time there have been 35 collections of milk of from 8 to 20 (average, 15 each) samples, and 6 collections of ice cream (4 to 6 samples each).

I have tabulated the work done as follows:

Chemical examinations of milk	455
Bacteriological examinations of milk	412
Bacteriological examinations of ice cream	32
Chemical examinations of ice cream	32
B. Coli determinations on "tonics"	6
Total number of examinations made	937

Yours truly,

EDWIN E. SMITH, M.D.

REPORT OF CHILD WELFARE PHYSICIAN

JANUARY 1, 1924.

Dr. M. T. SWEENEY, Health Commissioner.

DEAR DOCTOR:— During the year 1923, of 590 babies registered in the care of the Quincy baby clinics there were 8 deaths; 5 of these, due to pneumonia, were presumably not preventable; 1 from congenital syphilis; 1 from a fulminating infection (death certificate gave "ileocolitis" as the diagnosis); and 1 from "malnutrition," this last baby not directly under the care of the clinics.

This figure gives an infant (babies under two) mortality of a little less than 16 per 1,000, in contrast with the figure that you have in your office of the general infant mortality of Quincy. This last figure as compared with that of the previous year may be due in part to the work of the clinics.

Twenty-three children, because of financial reasons, were sent to Boston out-patient clinics. There were many others who the writer feels did not attend a private physician because of expense, and failed to attend clinics in Boston because of the distance.

During my work I have made 708 complete or partial physical examinations. The total attendance of the clinics increased 34 per cent. The increase by wards was as follows:

	Per Cent
Ward 4	29
Ward 6	32
Ward 1	50
Ward 2	12

I should recommend the establishment of a separate clinic for children from the ages of two to five, such clinic to be kept distinct from any clinic for "pretubercular children."

I should advise the elimination of prenatal work by the present child welfare nurse, such work to be conducted possibly by the district nurse.

I should recommend as far as possible the use of schoolhouses or other public buildings for clinics, because under the present arrangements it is sometimes impossible to correctly weigh the babies on account of insufficient heat. The designation of these clinics and their time by suitable signs would be of some value.

Publicity, perhaps by means of a weekly health column in a local paper, would benefit the work. In this way it might be possible to enlist some volunteer workers to assist Miss Denton in weighing the babies.

This is being done now by Miss Denton.

It has been the custom of Miss Denton to refer all babies who were not progressing satisfactorily to the clinic physician in the central clinic for examination. Because of distances to be traveled many babies have not been seen at all or only when in a very poor state of nutrition. The situation might be improved if more or all of the clinics had a physician in attendance.

I can give no reason why Wards 4, 6 and 2 should not increase at about the same rate. The marked increase in Ward 1 might be repeated in all wards if a physician were in attendance at all clinics. Ward 2 may have diminished somewhat in population because of lessened employment at the Fore River Ship Yard.

There were 101 children over the age of two years registered at the clinics, and during the year there were 54 transferred to school nurses and health stations of other cities.

Recommendations for Future Expansion

The following table will show that two fairly populous wards have no clinics.

WARD								Population (1920)	Clinic
1	9,185	Thursday afternoon
2	8,415	Friday afternoon
3	8,450	No clinic
4	5,834	Monday afternoon
5	9,161	No clinic
6	6,927	Tuesday afternoon

I should recommend that clinics be established for Wards 3 and 5. In the case of Ward 3 it is particularly necessary because of the high Italian population.

I should request the use of another full-time nurse trained in baby welfare work, even if no further increase in the number of clinics is possible. By the report of the child welfare nurse, Miss Nettie Denton, it is seen that 517 visits were made during the course of the year besides conducting four clinics weekly and attending two other clinics. It is obviously impossible to do efficient follow-up work and to carry out an educational program with one nurse as the sole worker.

These recommendations are many and perhaps expensive, but carried to their logical conclusion cannot but mean lowered infant morbidity and mortality, with the ultimate result of fewer dependents on the city and county because of physical and mental defects.

I especially wish to call to your attention the tactful, cheerful and uncomplaining work of Miss Nettie Denton, although clinics that sometimes last until 6.30 P.M. are necessarily a severe mental and physical strain.

Very truly yours,

E. B. FITZGERALD, M.D.,
Child Welfare Physician.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR OF BUILDINGS

JANUARY 1, 1924.

Hon. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor of Quincy, Mass.

DEAR SIR: — I herewith submit the seventeenth report of the Building Department of the city of Quincy for the year ending December 31, 1923.

The conditions of the year 1922 have continued through the year 1923, with increased number of permits and estimated costs of approximately 25 per cent above the figures for 1922. The building of dwellings still continues, fully 67 per cent of which were erected in Wards 5 and 6. Approximately 17 per cent of these dwellings were built in Ward 1.

In Wards 2, 3 and 4 there has been a substantial increase above the previous years, with the prospect of a further increase for the coming year.

The number of new apartments erected the past year was 837, practically one-half of which are in the two-family type of house.

The mercantile buildings erected this year have been of a more desirable type of building, practically all of which have been of the first or second class construction.

Our business sections have been extended along our main thoroughfares, and quite a few ancient structures within these areas have been removed and modern structures erected on these sites.

The private garage has also been in evidence the past year, as each home, to be complete, necessitates the erection of these structures for housing the automobile which today has become a necessity as a means of conveyance. The automobile has been the main cause of the building up of areas which in the past were considered remote sites for dwellings. The garage laws relative to location of the private garages have been amended so as to relieve the condition which the general public considered a grievance.

As in the past, a number of alterations to existing structures have been made. The alterations have consisted of improving old conditions and arranging for the occupancy of additional families, and on the whole have been of a material advantage to the condition of our city in relation to public safety, fire menace and sanitary conditions.

The new high school is now in process of completion, and the addition to the Massachusetts Field School building is progressing rapidly, the walls having been constructed, and the structure about ready to receive the roof.

These structures have, with few exceptions, been erected according to the regulations of the city, without undue friction between the Inspector and contractors. Practically all of the violations of the ordinance have been done by contractors from the adjoining towns in which no regulations were in force, and at the request of the Inspector these conditions have been remedied.

In closing I want to thank the contractors and others connected with the building trades for the goodwill and courtesy extended to this office in the past, and I hope our relations will continue the same in the future.

REPORT OF BOARD OF SURVEY

JANUARY 1, 1924.

To His Honor Mayor GUSTAVE B. BATES and Members of the City Council.

GENTLEMEN: — The Board of Survey respectfully submits herewith its ninth annual report for the year ending December 31, 1923.

The Board organized on January 19 for the year 1923, and voted Hon. Eugene R. Stone, chairman, and Patrick F. O'Brien, clerk.

The Board held nine meetings during the year.

The adoption of a plan that would be acceptable to the interested parties, the Glover estate and the Pope estate at Atlantic, was one that required time and study. Several hearings were held and plans made by the Board, the Glover estate and the Pope estate.

Finally a settlement was reached whereby both parties gave land for street between the estates.

Two streets, Holyoke Street in the Atlantic district and Holbrook Road in the Montclair district, were recommended to the City Council for action, but nothing has been done to date. Hearings were held on the following streets:

Stevens Street, School Street to Quincy Avenue.

Williams Street	} Catherine C. and Alice C. Pope estate.
Alstead Street
Tirrell Street
Carlisle Street
Hughes Street extension	} Byron C. Miller estate.
Lurton Street extension

Respectfully submitted,

HON. EUGENE R. STONE, Chairman,
WILLIAM G. TEASDALE,
WILLIAM G. SHAW,

Board of Survey.

PATRICK F. O'BRIEN, Clerk.

REPORT OF ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

QUINCY, MASS., January 1, 1924.

To His Honor, GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor, and Members of the City Council.

DEAR SIR:— I herewith respectfully submit the twenty-fourth annual report of the Engineering Department for the year ending December 31, 1923.

The following is a summary of the work done by this department during the year 1923.

Lines and grades have been given at the request of property owners of 140 estates.

Plans and estimates have been made as follows:

Proposed new streets	15
Proposed street widening	8
Proposed building lines	9
Plans for City Planning Board	5
Plans for Board of Survey	4
Plans for legislative hearings	3
Plans for assessors	54
Miscellaneous plans	32

New Streets

The usual requests for new streets were made by people living on unaccepted streets, but no action was taken until late in the year, when some of the streets were accepted, but no appropriations were made, as it was too late for construction.

The streets in the Quincy Point district, built by the United States government, were formally accepted by the City Council as city streets (see Schedule).

Rebuilding Streets

Coddington Street was rebuilt on the northerly side from Woodward Avenue to Valley Street, a distance of about 1,200 feet. The southerly side was rebuilt two years previously.

The rebuilding of Hancock Street between the Boulevard and Neponset Bridge was begun late in the year and continued until cold weather (see Schedule).

Surface Drains

The drainage on Independence Avenue between Goddard Street and Federal Avenue has caused trouble for years, so an additional line was put in to relieve the situation.

The drainage on Granite Street at the crossing with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad required the attention of a force of men every storm to keep the street open for travel. A new line of pipe was put in and the old line cleaned and repaired.

A tide gate and drain pipes were put in at Parkhurst Street, Houghs Neck, to improve the unhealthy condition of a slough hole that was a source of trouble for a long time (see Schedule).

Permanent Sidewalks

Granolithic walks were constructed in locations where requested (see Schedule).

A new kind of sidewalk was constructed on Coddington Street as a sample, which has a good hard even surface. It is of the tar concrete type, with a special kind of tar product being used. The cost is about one-half that of granolithic.

Automobile Parking

The attention of the authorities has been called to the necessity of providing parking places for automobiles so as to keep them from blocking the main thoroughfares.

Suggested widenings of streets adjacent to the business district have been made, and the taking of the Edwards meadow by the city, supplying a parking space for 1,000 automobiles, has been considered by the City Council, but no definite action has been taken.

Legislative Hearings

Considerable interest is taken each year at the State House in matters pertaining to the city of Quincy. The building of the Furnace Brook Parkway between Hancock Street and Newport Avenue, going under the tracks of the Old Colony Railroad was passed by the Legislature, an appropriation of $135,000 being allowed. When this section is completed it will connect the Quincy Shore Reservation with the Blue Hill Reservation.

City Playgrounds

The city playgrounds are receiving attention and are being enlarged and improved both for the use of the children and for athletics.

Viewing stands are now installed at all the playgrounds.

Efforts are being made to have playgrounds at Montclair, Squantum and Houghs Neck.

Grade Crossings

Nothing being done in the elimination of grade crossings in Quincy. The work started in the extension of Upland Road to Granite Street opposite the Quincy Depot has been finished and the road opened to travel. The wooden footbridge on Saville Street, over the railroad tracks, is completed and opened to the public but is not generally used.

Neponset Bridge

The new bridge being constructed on Hancock Street over the Neponset River is nearing completion and will be an attractive structure.

The bridge is a concrete arch type, with granite-faced piers and a steel draw span.

Total length of bridge, 776 feet; two roadways 28 feet each; two sidewalks 6 feet each; and two cartracks along center of bridge.

New High School

The construction of the new high school which was begun in February, 1922, was stopped in January, 1923, because the contractor doing the work went into bankruptcy. Work could not be started again until a settlement was made with the Bonding Company.

New bids for the work were received and a new contract awarded to the John A. Bowen Company.

Work was begun again September 1, 1923, and is progressing rapidly, the contractor agreeing to have the building completed by June 30, 1924.

For financial statement, see Auditor's report.

Yours respectfully,

PATRICK F. O'BRIEN,

City Engineer.

REPORT OF BOARD OF PARK COMMISSIONERS

JANUARY 1, 1924.

To His Honor the Mayor.

The Board of Park Commissioners begs leave to submit the following report for the year 1923.

Merrymount Park

This park was used more than ever during the past year, perhaps on account of a few improvements that made access to it and through it much more comfortable than heretofore. A gravel road, with tarvia top, was built directly through the park, from Fenno Street to Park Lane. All the dangerous bumps and ruts were eliminated without any apparent change in the contour of the road, and this beautiful driveway, on which no trucking is allowed, was used by innumerable pleasure cars last year.

An outlet to this road, directly behind the upper ball field, was built, and when an appropriation is made for the purpose, a road will be built along the edge of the hills as far as the new entrance to the park on Fenno Street, near Hancock Street. This entrance was made last year, and the old one, which was unsafe and dangerous, was closed.

Again I would offer the suggestion that some plan be worked out whereby a permanent band stand be erected on the farther field, and a suitable road leading to it be constructed. According to the City Engineer, the building of this would not be a large item of expense. This field overlooks Black's Creek and is in close proximity to Pine Island, to which island the Planning Board has repeatedly suggested building a bridge, and would be an ideal place for band concerts, field days and gatherings of all kinds.

An appropriation order for the erection of seats on the hill adjoining Paffmann Oval has already been introduced in the City Council, and the Board strongly recommends its passage.

Playgrounds

By means of a special appropriation by the City Council, wooden bleachers were built on the ball fields at Wards 2, 3, 4, and 6, and also at Merrymount Park. These were well needed improvements, and on account of the great interest shown in the City Baseball League, they were filled to the limit at every game.

There was an unusual demand for permits for the use of baseball and football fields during the summer, and hardly an evening passed without a game of some sort. Judging from the interest already shown this spring, the coming baseball season promises to be a lively one.

Public Bath House

This popular institution had another successful season. The demand for lockers was so large that a time limit was set on the bathers, but in spite of this fact, the bathers were uncomfortably crowded, especially on the women's side.

A large portion of the roof will have to be resingled this year, and it is hoped that the Mayor's recommendation in the budget will be approved by the Council.

Supervised Playgrounds

It is pretty well agreed among thinking people that on the growth and physical education of the young children depends the welfare of the Nation, and hence it is needless to speak of the beneficial results obtained from the supervised playgrounds. The eagerness and activity of the children, and the attendance each day tell the story.

Mr. F. N. Nissen was our playground director, and he was assisted by a very energetic corps of instructors, who made the work and games so interesting that there was an average daily attendance of over 500 during the eight weeks of the summer that the playgrounds were in operation.

There has been quite a demand for a supervised playground in the Ward 4 section, and if the Mayor's recommendation in his budget be approved by the Council, this playground will be installed.

All suggestions are respectfully submitted for consideration.

JAMES H. SLADE,
Chairman.

NINTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CITY PLANNING BOARD OF QUINCY

To His Honor the Mayor and Members of the City Council.

GENTLEMEN:— In compiling our ninth annual report we find the process of including certain material not vital to the report, as made up in the city book, can more readily be placed in a subjoined appendix as appeared in our report for 1922.

The activities of the Board have been constant and not confined to our regular monthly meetings. Special conferences have been held with a committee of the Burns Memorial Association, also with a special committee from the Chamber of Commerce upon the automobile parking and traffic problem.

The chairman has represented the Board at all meetings of the Metropolitan Boston Planning Federation and the State Federation in Springfield.

A meeting January 16 with the First Parish Club, when Mr. Flavel Shurtleff gave an address upon City Planning and Zoning, was carried out by the Board.

Members of the Board addressed the Burns Memorial Association on April 12 upon city planning.

Resolutions were placed upon our records in memory of Prof. William Fenwick Harris whose sudden demise occurred early in the career of the Metropolitan Federation.

We wish to make particular note from our records of June 5, as follows:

Voted, that the Planning Board go on record as in favor of the efforts of the Chief of Police in placing the silent policeman at prominent locations, and his recommendation for curving all square corners is in the right direction to avoid accidents.

We have made upon a 10-foot scale a plan for a comfort station 30 by 36 feet in dimension, which we renew our recommendation to go upon the plot between City Hall and the railroad.

We renew all recommendations which stand in our report of 1922, item H of the Appendix. In addition to these we again call your attention to the islands at Adams Street and the Furnace Brook Parkway and most strongly recommend that they be entirely removed from the right of way. A silent policeman at the immediate junction of these two thoroughfares will divide and guide the traffic sufficiently. It will mean some little amount of street resurfacing, but to get the most of this improvement and secure safety, recent experiences have demonstrated this to be a necessity.

We have at different periods this year made studies and placed upon our records building lines upon Beach Street from Hancock Street to the Quincy Shore Drive, the study calling for 70 feet in width from Hancock Street to Rawson Road. We have also made a plan for a building line on Water Street from Franklin Street to Quincy Avenue a width of 60 feet.

Upon the plan¹ accompanying this report we have placed the Edwards meadow study for a parking space, and the following building lines: Chestnut Street, 55 feet wide; Foster Street, 55 feet wide; Cottage Avenue, 55 feet wide; Cottage Street, 50 feet wide; Revere Road, 50 feet wide; Maple Street, 55 feet wide; Russell Park, 50 feet wide, from Hancock Street, widening to 65 feet, its present layout, in its parked section. The plan also shows the needed width of the bridge at Dimmock Street and the extension previously planned for of Greenleaf Street from Hancock to Adams Street.

It will be noted that our study at Foster and Chestnut Streets and Cottage Avenue gives adequate relief for traffic through these lateral streets. We call especial attention to this recommendation for Russell Park. It will be noted upon our civic center plan that this street is not only the gateway to Faxon Field, but can be used as a thoroughfare for traffic from Hancock, Adams and Dimmock Streets, going to the east via Woodward Avenue and Coddington Street. In addition the street is susceptible of ready development for parking that will be a natural requirement for the Elks Home and Masonic Temple near by. In developing this width of Russell Park the taking would not be of material damage to abutting lots, being but a matter of 7½ feet on either side of the present street.

We are presenting for our frontispiece a view of the new Armory, an addition to Quincy's civic construction.

The Board has before it a communication and plan of the extension of Florence Street across the meadow to Merrymount Park. These have received the approval of the board and are still before us for further consideration.

In the matter of zoning we have to ask the indulgence of the city authorities and the public. It is certainly understood that this vital matter requires the utmost care and study even to present a preliminary report. It is probable that we shall have to call in the assistance provided by the State Department of Public Welfare to assist in our councils.

In the Appendix will be found the bill presented this season's Legislature for the Pilgrim Parkway. This with the widening of the Quincy Shore Drive and missing link of the Furnace Brook Parkway has the hearty co-operation of the Planning Division of the Metropolitan Commission.

We are also submitting as a matter of general interest a copy of the questionnaire submitted to us with maps by the Metropolitan Planning Division. The maps can be referred to at our office.

In reference to the Metropolitan Boston Planning Federation we wish to quote from its constitution the following:—

No. 2. OBJECTS.

The objects of this organization shall be to co-ordinate city and town planning in the municipalities comprising metropolitan Boston; to promote a regional plan for the district and the collection of data necessary for intelligent planning; and to disseminate information regarding the benefits and importance of planning.

In view of the inconsiderate discussion under way of a metropolitan Boston plan we hope that the question of Quincy and the forty-odd municipalities and towns in the district can be presented before another season by some one qualified to speak broadly upon the manifold advantages and the retaining of individuality of the communities in such a combination, and dispel the bugbear of a political union.

In concluding this report we wish it understood that this Board welcomes at all times suggestions and constructive criticisms. We have regular meeting dates the second Tuesday evening in each month, and while our functions are only advisory, our meeting records are in permanent form. The chairman is also usually in attendance at the office, Room 1B City Hall, each Monday evening when the Council is in session.

Respectfully submitted,

CITY PLANNING BOARD.

APPENDIX

A. PILGRIM PARKWAY, HOUSE BILL 1924

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

In the Year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-four

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE CONSTRUCTION BY THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COMMISSION OF THE PILGRIM PARKWAY IN QUINCY IN THE YEAR NINETEEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. The metropolitan district commission is hereby authorized and directed to construct in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-four a parkway to be known as the Pilgrim Parkway, from a point on the Quincy shore drive near the bridge over Black's creek in the city of Quincy, thence by the Pilgrim Boulevard, through the present Pilgrim Parkway, across Washington St. through North St. to Quincy Avenue, all as shown on a plan entitled Plan of the Pilgrim Parkway, January 1924 of the City Planning Board, Quincy.

SECTION 2. The sum of Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand dollars ($450,000) or such part thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Metropolitan District Commission.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

B. WHITE WAY RECOMMENDATIONS, APRIL 6, 1923

CITY PLANNING BOARD,
QUINCY, MASS., April 6, 1923.

Hon. G. B. BATES, Mayor, and City Council, Quincy, Mass.

GENTLEMEN:—Again at this time we wish to repeat former recommendations, more particularly as lately set forth in our last annual report, Appendix D, that portion of the resolve for a White Way bearing upon the removal of public service wires and poles from the business section of Hancock Street. Members of the Council undoubtedly had sufficient personal evidence of the menace at the recent Greenleaf fire, previously at the Berman fire, and this week when a portion of the Greenleaf roof collapsed.

With the assured project of immediate extensive construction on Hancock Street to the north of City Square we would extend our recommendation to the junction of Adams Street.

We consider that the artistic result of their removal from one of the finest business squares in the Commonwealth would be sufficient in itself to warrant action. Cannot the present Council move toward starting this improvement before more serious results occur.

Respectfully submitted,
CITY PLANNING BOARD,
By WILSON MARSH, Chairman.

P. F. O'BRIEN, Clerk.

C. APTHORP STREET QUARRY RECOMMENDATIONS, JUNE 6, 1923

CITY PLANNING BOARD,
QUINCY, MASS., June 6, 1923.

Hon. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor, and City Council, Quincy.

GENTLEMEN: — Now that the quarry hole at Apthorp Street, Ward 6, has been filled, it is recommended by this Board that the surfacing of it be completed and that a layout of tennis courts be planned for public use.

For many years the community in this neighborhood has had the nuisance before it, and it would be a very modest recompense that this be done.

Regarding the quarry pond adjoining this property it is our opinion that this can remain in its present condition until such time as more available areas in the vicinity are filled.

The present condition of this pond is not offensive, in fact, is not unattractive, although necessarily fenced in to avoid danger.

Respectfully,
CITY PLANNING BOARD,
By WILSON MARSH, Chairman.

P. F. O'BRIEN, Clerk.

D. EDWIN STREET, WILSON AVENUE RECOMMENDATIONS, JUNE 6, 1923

CITY PLANNING BOARD,
QUINCY, MASS., June 6, 1923.

Hon. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor, and City Council, Quincy.

GENTLEMEN: — It has been brought to our attention that building developments are contemplated in that section of Ward 6 at the end of Wilson Avenue and Edwin Street.

It would appear to be desirable that a layout of Edwin Street, through to Newbury Avenue be made by the city, and that Wilson Avenue be extended to meet Edwin Street.

It is only a question of time when public necessity will demand this, and now is the opportunity to save for the city.

The City Engineer and Board of Survey concur with us as to its expediency at this time.

Respectfully,
CITY PLANNING BOARD,
By WILSON MARSH, Chairman.

P. F. O'BRIEN, Clerk.

1. Council Resolve May 7, 1923

CITY OF QUINCY
IN COUNCIL

MAY 7, 1923.

No. 183.

Resolved, That the Planning Board be requested to investigate the advisability of the city taking, either by purchase or by right of eminent domain, the land lying in the rear of the buildings on Hancock Street and lying easterly of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tracks, known as the Edwards Field, for the purpose of establishing parking space for autos or for such other municipal purposes that it might be later on needed for; and it is further

Resolved, That they be requested to furnish the council with data as to the area of said lot and as to the estimated amount of fill which would be required to bring it up to established grades, and also furnish recommendations as to the development of said lot together with approaches thereto.

Said report to be furnished in as complete a manner as possible and at the earliest opportunity.

Adopted May 7, 1923.

2. Planning Board Report Oct. 26, 1923

CITY PLANNING BOARD,
QUINCY, MASS., October 26, 1923.Hon. GUSTAVE B. BATES, Mayor, and City Council, Quincy.

GENTLEMEN:— In furtherance of request regarding the James Edwards meadow tract for possible use as an automobile park, this Board submits its recommendation that the property be acquired by the city. It is particularly fortunate that there is in the heart of the city such an available plot. Access to it can be planned via Cliveden Street and an exit over property opposite Revere Road, adjoining the Quincy Theatre.

It is undisputable that municipalities must plan for handling this tremendous traffic, and undeveloped tracts will save expensive widening of commercial streets to parkways, as in the case of Brockton's Legion Parkway. This property consisting of 260,000 square feet is valued at approximately $35,000. Using 60,000 feet easterly of brook, as per plan herewith submitted, a gravel fill of 3 feet can be laid at an estimate of $10,000. Provision is made in this study of space for 600 cars, with necessary roadways on the meadow.

Under excess condemnation the balance of 200,000 feet is at the disposal of the city for commercial purposes or otherwise. A layout of street from School Street opposite Franklin Street to Granite Street would hasten availability of this land and at the same time invite traffic, already finding its way through Upland Road extension, to continue to the south without again adding to the congestion at the southerly end of Hancock Street.

While the Board realizes the entire proposition is ambitious, it does consider that our city should be abreast of the times in this matter.

The special committee of the Chamber of Commerce is in hearty agreement upon this and will so recommend.

Respectfully submitted,

CITY PLANNING BOARD,

By WILSON MARSH, Chairman.

F. QUESTIONNAIRE METROPOLITAN PLANNING DIVISION

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

DIVISION OF METROPOLITAN PLANNING

General Questionnaire

1. In your opinion what existing main highways of the Metropolitan District should be straightened or widened or extended to make them more useful cross-district thoroughfares? (Please name the most important of these thoroughfares and also indicate them on the accompanying maps.)

2. Do you think additional new thoroughfares should be created across or around the Metropolitan District? If so, what should be their general location and width?

3. Have you in mind any local street widenings, connections or extensions which would make useful links in the present main thoroughfares of the District?

4. Are vehicular viaducts or tunnels needed in the District? If so, where?

5. In your opinion can congestion of highway trucking in the District be reduced:

(1) By additional railway connections between present railway lines; if so, where?

(2) By changes in railway freight yard locations; if so, where?

6. Do you think additional highway bridges will be needed in the District at the Mystic, Charles and the Neponset Rivers during the next fifty years? If so, at what points should they probably be located?

7. Have you any suggestions regarding the method of apportioning the cost of constructing and maintaining highways devoted largely to district rather than to local use?

8. Are there other highway problems of the District which, in your opinion, ought to receive consideration by the Planning Division?

9. Do you consider the time ripe for an extension of the surface trolley lines of the District? If so, what extensions or improvements seem to you most important?

10. Are additional subways needed in the District; if so, where?

11. In your opinion how should such subways be financed?

12. In your judgment can any portion of the present steam railway trackage in the District be operated to advantage as a portion of the trolley rapid transit system? If so, what portions, and in what manner? If convenient, also indicate your suggestions on the map.

13. To what extent, in your opinion, can the operation of motor busses on the highways of the District be made to extend or to improve the service of the trolleys on feeder lines?

14. What existing trolley lines, if any, can be given up to advantage, and motor bus service substituted?

15. Please enumerate other trolley, subway and elevated transportation matters which you think should be studied in connection with the larger problems of the District.

16. Do you feel that an extension of the main steam railway lines or branch lines of the District is desirable? If so, at what points?

17. What additional physical connections, if any, are needed, in your judgment, to unite the trackage of the steam railroads of the District either in or near Boston or in the outskirts of the District? Please also indicate approximately on the map.

18. Have you any suggestions for the improvement of the general location, arrangement or operation of the present passenger steam railway terminals, or of local passenger stations of the District?

19. What general improvements should be made in the location, arrangement and operation of the railway freight yards or other railway freight-handling facilities of the District?

20. What portions, if any, of the steam railway lines of the District should be electrified?

21. How should such electrification be financed?

22. Several of the large cities of the country have a freight rate structure providing that incoming or outgoing freight in carload lots, from or to any railroad, will be delivered at the regular rate (that is, without extra switching charges) from or to any freight station in the metropolitan area, irrespective of the railroad on which the freight station is located. This means that the local switching charges are absorbed in the regular rate. If this plan were adopted for Boston, it would undoubtedly be a great convenience for shippers, but would place an additional burden upon the New England railroads. Under the conditions, do you favor such a plan?

23. In addition to the points suggested above, what other steam railroad matters of the District ought to receive the attention of the Planning Division?

24. Do you feel that the rivers of the District can be utilized to greater degree for transportation purposes? If so, to what degree and at what points?

25. In your judgment what additional water transportation facilities are needed in the harbors of the District, either to connect railway and steamship lines or to handle the local business of these waterfronts?

26. In reviewing the above questions, reference may seem to be lacking to matters of importance which, in the judgment of the reader, the Metropolitan Planning Division ought to consider in carrying out its work under the act of appointment. It is hoped that the reader will note matters of this kind in the following space which is provided for this purpose.

The thirty-fourth annual report of the Board of Managers of the Quincy City Hospital for the year 1923 is herewith presented. It is gratifying to know that this has been one of the most successful years that the hospital has ever had.

Early in the year there was a change in the Board of Managers, and the Mayor, under authority of the City Charter, appointed the following:

Messrs. Walter F. Nichols, Charles R. Young, John R. Richards, Carl E. Carlson, and William J. Walsh. They organized with Mr. Nichols as chairman and Mr. Young as secretary. Later other changes were made by the resignations of Messrs. Nichols and Walsh. These vacancies were filled by the appointment of Mr. Russell T. Bates and Mr. Frederick F. Green, the latter being elected chairman.

The new service building, which was started late in the year 1922, is nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy about May 1, 1924. With this new building and its various modern machinery and extensive equipment the cost of operating the hospital will be materially increased.

Miss Katherine Hurley, who had for several years filled the position of superintendent, tendered her resignation January 10, 1923, and Miss Isabelle M. Lumsden, executive assistant, took charge of the hospital until a successor was appointed. The Board of Managers, after interviewing numerous applicants for the position, finally decided upon Miss Etta M. Bagley, who was an assistant at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and was considered to have the necessary qualifications. That no error was made is shown by the excellent results which have been obtained during the year. Miss Bagley has met all our expectations, and she has had the entire confidence and full support of the Board of Managers.

The need of an addition to the hospital to provide for maternity cases has existed for several years, and if the city is to derive the full results and benefits of this institution, provision should be promptly made for this addition. We shall expect the co-operation of the City Council to enable us to bring about speedy results.

During the year there have been two changes made in the staff. Dr. George M. Sheahan and Dr. Harold M. Diehl both tendered their resignations. Dr. John T. Reynolds was advanced to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Dr. Sheahan, and Dr. James H. Cook, being very highly recommended, was appointed as associate surgeon.

There had been for a long time the need of a suitable ambulance at the hospital, as the one in use was entirely unfitted as a conveyance for the sick and injured. It frequently became disabled while out on cases, and finally collapsed beyond reasonable repair and was discarded. A new one was purchased of a standard make which is used by many of the best hospitals. It is a credit to the city and is in more frequent use. The cost, including the old one, was $2,500.

The managers call your particular attention to the excellent financial showing made by the hospital during this year.

The Board of Managers extends thanks to the Quincy Hospital Aid Association as well as the Wollaston Hospital Aid Association for their co-operation and assistance during the past years. We extend thanks to all others who have in any way assisted the hospital during the past year.

Very respectfully,

FREDERICK F. GREEN, Chairman,
CHARLES R. YOUNG, Secretary,
CARL E. CARLSON,
JOHN R. RICHARDS,
RUSSELL T. BATES,

Board of Managers.

Two months' medical work is being given at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and the time for our district nurse work has been extended from one-half to the entire day.

The graduating exercises of the Training School were held June 20, 1923. The address was given by Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath. The diplomas were presented to the graduates by the chairman of the Board of Managers, Mr. Frederick F. Green. The class pins were given by the Hospital Aid Association and presented to the class by the president of the association, Mrs. Charles L. Homer. A reception followed the exercises.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL STAFF OF THE QUINCY CITY HOSPITAL

In accordance with the requirements of the American College of Surgeons, and for the prime purpose of promoting the highest standards of medical and surgical practice, with special reference to such practice in the Quincy Hospital, the hospital has an organized staff of 31 members, divided into three groups, — medical, surgical and consultant.

During the year 1923 the staff held regularly monthly meetings and several special meetings, at which matters pertaining to the good of the hospital were taken up, discussed and acted upon. Many recommendations were then made to the Board of Managers.

Fatal cases and others of an unusual or interesting character were presented at these meetings, and such cases were analyzed and reviewed by staff members.

The staff has adopted the rules as set forth by the American College of Surgeons for approved hospitals with respect particularly to fee splitting and the keeping of records.

WILLIAM R. HURLEY, M.D.,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE X-RAY DEPARTMENT

The amount of work done in the X-ray Department has steadily increased during the last year, and it is gratifying to note that in spite of a marked diminution in the number of patients received from industrial plants which were busy during the war, this loss has been made up by an increase in the private cases referred to the hospital.

The X-ray plant, while adequate to do the fracture work, which comprised the bulk of the cases in the past, is not satisfactory in caring for the type of patient that is now being referred to us. An analysis of the statistics of the department would show that during the last year, under the present administration, the department has been called upon more and more to do gastro-intestinal examinations and to study cases in which there is question about the kidneys or gall bladder. Because of this change in the type of work done, the need is urgent for increasing the space and the number of rooms devoted to the X-ray Department. To give reasonably efficient service there should be a separate room available where the films of patients could be viewed without interfering with the function of the dark room. (At present, our dark room is the only place where this study can be made.) Under present conditions, the only room that can be used for fluoroscopy is also used for other types of X-ray examinations, and is the passageway to the dark room. As a result of this arrangement, the fluoroscopic examinations are continually interrupted by the frequent passage of nurses and doctors to the dark room.

The present apparatus is of good quality and design, and has been kept in good condition. This should furnish the nucleus of an enlarged plant. We are greatly handicapped in many examinations, and some cases have to be turned away from the hospital because of the lack of a Bucky Diaphragm, which assists in getting reasonably clear photographs of heavy patients. In the study of the stomach, it is, many times, essential that the patient be standing up, and for this purpose a vertical fluoroscope should be provided. A small portable apparatus for making photographs at the patient's bedside would prove of great help in certain cases of fracture, the moving of which to the X-ray Department is sometimes unsafe. This unit would also prove most useful in the diagnosis of diseases of the heart and lungs, in which conditions the patients are often too ill to risk a journey to the X-ray room. The hospital is without means to do stereoröntgenography. This is a method by which the simultaneous observation of two films gives a sense of perspective which is of extreme value, especially in fractures about the hip joint.

This brief résumé of the requirements of the X-ray Department reveals the handicap under which work is done and indicates the possibilities for improvement in the X-ray service with proper arrangement and equipment. I therefore recommend that there be allotted to the X-ray Department as soon as practicable:

1. A sufficient area so that quarters may be arranged to house conveniently new apparatus.

2. An appropriation of $1,500 for the purchase of additional apparatus.

In the foregoing discussion of requirements, I have not mentioned the possibilities in the line of X-ray therapy. I believe, in a short time, a hospital will not be considered up-to-date unless it has a Department of Radiotherapy, and in the allotting of new space to the present department sufficient room should be allowed for expansion along this line.

REPORT OF HOSPITAL AID ASSOCIATION

The Quincy Hospital Aid Association endeavors to render such service to the hospital as lies within its power.

This group of women meets once a month during the greater part of the year, and sews or makes dressings for the hospital. The dues of $1 a year do not accumulate into a large fund, but with the money on hand we have added equipment to the Training School, offered a scholarship in public health nursing, carried Christmas cheer to the patients in the hospital at that time, subscribed to three magazines for the pleasure of the nurses, given to the superintendent a small fund for their recreation, and at graduation have presented to the senior nurses their Quincy Hospital pins.

In reviewing the past year, a most encouraging feature is the decided increase in civic interest in our hospital.* The Teachers' Association gave a performance of "Pinafore," raising $250 for us, and our Italian friends have similarly shown their interest.

A branch of this association has been successfully launched in Wollaston. We are proud of this, our offspring, and wish it long life. Faithful friends in various other organizations have sewed for us, and we have subscribed to the work of our City Visiting Nurses.

We thank all our friends for their co-operation, and cordially invite all women of Quincy to join our group.

MARY G. C. HOMER,
President.

Report of the Wollaston Branch

The Wollaston Branch of the Hospital Aid Association, organized in April, 1923, has held meetings the first Thursday of each month, in the beginning in the Wollaston Branch Library, then in a vacant store in the Norris Block, and later, when this was rented, in the store at 331 Newport Avenue.

The splendid spirit of co-operation shown by Wollaston people whenever appealed to has been very gratifying. Mr. A. E. Walker has provided a meeting place; the necessary furniture was loaned by the Quincy Branch of the Red Cross; a stove given by Mr. H. H. Ralph was set up by Mr. A. E. Stephenson; and Christmas candy was cheerfully donated by the four druggists and the Wollaston Candy Kitchen.

One member of the organization has visited the hospital each month, usually accompanied by a friend who has invariably formed the opinion that the work of the Hospital Aid Association is well worth while.

A contribution has been made to a fund to be used as an incentive to greater effort in the Training School for Nurses, and a technical magazine has been provided for their use.

The association was privileged to help make Christmas Day in the hospital as happy as possible by decorating a tree in each ward, on which was hung a bag of candy and a Christmas card for every patient.

Besides the sewing — 1,084 articles having been finished — books and magazines have been added to the library, and flowering plants placed in the wards at Thanksgiving and evergreen baskets at Christmas.

The association has the interest of the hospital at heart, and will be ever ready to assist in any way.

EDWINNA M. ROBB,
President.

SYNOPSIS OF THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

The theoretical and practical courses of instruction conform closely to the standard curriculum prepared by the educational committee of the National League of Nursing Education. The time allotted to the subjects will be divided between lectures, demonstrations, classes, quizzes and laboratory work.

The course includes:

First Year

Nursing principles and demonstrations.

Anatomy and physiology.

Bacteriology.

History of nursing.

Applied chemistry.

Personal hygiene.

Drugs and solutions.

Elementary cooking.

Bandaging.

Second Year

Materia medica and therapeutics.

Massage.

Operating room technic.

Nursing in medical and surgical diseases.

Nursing in diseases of infants and children.

Orthopedic nursing.

Third Year

Obstetric nursing.

Special lectures:

Eye, ear, nose and throat.

Mental and nervous diseases.

Anæsthesia.

Hygiene and sanitation.

Occupational, venereal and skin diseases.

Contagious nursing:

A course of three months is given at the Boston City Hospital.

Visiting nursing:

Experience in visiting nursing is given under the supervision of the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association. If qualified, the pupil also has an opportunity to act as head nurse and assist in housekeeping, which will give her some executive experience.

Medical nursing:

A course of two months will be given at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Students entering the preliminary term must come provided with the following:

Three dresses.

Ten aprons.

Six collars.

Four sets of plain underclothing, including two colored petticoats of wash material.

Two pairs of comfortable black shoes with broad soles and rubber heels. (Suede, cloth and patent leather not allowed.)

Rain coat and rubbers.

Kimona and slippers.

One napkin ring with owner's name.

Watch with second hand (lady's size Ingersoll is inexpensive and preferable to a gold watch for duty).

Fountain pen.

Laundry bag.

Directions for uniforms, etc., will be sent with the acceptance slip.

OUTLINE OF DEMONSTRATIONS GIVEN PROBATIONERS

Identification and use of ward linen, care and economy of hospital supplies and utensils.

Methods of preparing surgical dressings, gauze sponges, abdominal and perineal pads, cotton-balls, etc., for sterilization.

Methods of making and stripping beds, closed and open.

Ambulance bed—receiving and caring for patient admitted from ambulance.

- Ether bed — methods of warming, reception and after-care of surgical patient. Gynecological position.
- Occupied bed — turning and lifting of helpless patient, changing or turning of mattress with patient in bed.
- Sitting patient up in bed, use of back rest, Fowler's position, pillow slings, placing of small pillows for comfort of patient.
- Care of convalescent patient. Getting patient out of bed for the first time. Sitting in chair, arrangement of pillows, blankets, foot-rest, etc.
- Admission of new patients, first bath, inspection for pediculosis and treatment. Care of clothing and valuables.
- Discharge of patient; instruction in general rules to be observed by the nurse who discharges the patient.
- General morning and evening care, special care of back, hair and teeth. Methods of insuring comfort.
- Care of bed and bedding of normal patient.
- Bathing — bed and tub, cleansing bath, cool sponge for reducing temperature, alcohol rub.
- Other therapeutic treatments — cold pack, hot pack, wet and dry, cold and hot applications, irrigations, fomentations.
- Fracture bed — preparation of appliances, methods of moving patient; cause, detection, and prevention and treatment of pressure sores.
- Special precautions used in care of infectious cases, pneumonia, typhoid fever and meningitis; bathing, diet, special care of mouth and back.
- Care of bed and bedding of patient with infectious disease; cleansing and sterilization after discharge of patient.
- Treatments for medical and surgical patients; enemata, cleansing, purgative, carminative and nutritive. Enteroclysis, douches, catheterization, bladder irrigation. Collecting of specimen for laboratory.
- Methods of preparing and applying counterirritants, poultices, stoups and fomentations.
- Serving of trays, feeding helpless patients.
- Theory and practice of asepsis and anti-sepsis; asepsis and disinfection of nurses' hands.
- Preparation of patient for operation — local and general care; care after operation.
- Emergency care in cases of shock, collapse or hemorrhage. Use of shock-blocks, shock enema — stimulation.
- Surgical dressings, sterilization and care of instruments, etc. Care of perineal stitches. Bandaging — fundamental bandages, special application of binders and slings.
- Temperature, pulse and respiration; methods of ascertaining and recording. Care of thermometers.
- Charting — daily, four-hourly — notes.
- Medicines — methods of preparing and administering, by mouth, hypodermic, inhalation, proctoeclysis.
- Care of dying patient; attitude towards friends, special care after death. Care of clothing and valuables.
- Demonstration of equipment and procedure of paracentesis of chest and abdomen; lumbar puncture, subpectoral and intravenous infusions, gavage and lavage.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES

To His Honor the Mayor of the City of Quincy.

The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library beg leave to submit their fifty-third annual report.

The year 1923 has added its measure of growth and far-reaching helpfulness of our library. The constantly increasing demands made upon it by our ever-growing city show how greatly the library is needed and appreciated. With eight branches in addition to the central building we are now able to place our books within convenient reach of all our citizens.

³ Deceased.

The last branch building opened to the public was that at Wollaston on Beale Street, the land for which was paid for by popular subscription through the efforts of the Wollaston Women's Club. This attractive building was dedicated on the evening of Friday, March 2. The reading room was large enough to accommodate the goodly number of people who came from all parts of the city. Friends and well-wishers, including the Wollaston Glee Club, the Wollaston Grammar School, the Massachusetts Fields School, Wollaston Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, Wollaston Improvement Society and Wollaston Women's Club, had contributed beautiful flowers and potted plants. The Grammar School Orchestra furnished music.

Mrs. Thomas, president of the Wollaston Women's Club, opened the meeting and spoke of the friendly interest and co-operation of the Wollaston people with the Trustees in making this branch a possibility.

The chairman of our Board spoke of the value of the library to the community, and gave credit to the members of the former Board for their efforts in its behalf.

Mrs. Bowles, a former president of the Wollaston Women's Club, and now a member of our Board, spoke of the evolution of this branch from the beginning — when a hamper of books was sent from the central library twice a week, during the period when a corner of a provision store was used as the exchange — to the present time, when a beautiful building with its large sunny reading room is open to all.

Mr. Temple, the librarian, added his word of interest, together with the assurance that everything possible would be done for the convenience and pleasure of those using the Wollaston Branch. He quoted statistics relative to the circulation of the books of the library which indicated the difficulties under which it labors.

At the May meeting of the Trustees, Mrs. Bowles brought a gift of $75 from the Wollaston Women's Club. This money has been expended on books for the Wollaston Branch.

During the year Miss Mabel S. Baxter completed thirty-five consecutive years of activity in the library. In recognition of this long period of faithful service the Trustees voted to name in her honor the South Quincy Branch of which she has charge. On the evening of October 30 it was formally dedicated in her name.

The following resolutions were adopted at the October meeting of the Board:

Whereas, The Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library feel with keen regret the untimely death by accident of their faithful janitor, Edmund C. Roach, on September 25, 1923, they desire to place on record the following resolutions:

Resolved, That they hereby express their deep appreciation of his untiring efforts in the care of the library building and its beautiful lawn which stands as a monument to his painstaking care.

Resolved, That they deplore the loss of a good and faithful servant who was constant in his loyal efforts to further the best interests of the library.

Resolved, That the Board of Trustees tenders its deepest sympathy to his bereaved family; and

Resolved, That a copy of these records be sent to his family and also spread upon the library records.

On Saturday, the 27th of October, the Trustees made a tour of inspection, visiting all the branch library buildings, thus becoming conversant with their conditions and needs.

In the work of the year involving administrative affairs and matters of policy regarding the library the Trustees have performed their duties with a full sense of the responsibility involved; and the splendid spirit of co-operation and enthusiasm manifested by the librarian and the staff has been of valuable assistance as well as a great pleasure to us personally.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE E. ADAMS, Chairman.

GEORGIANA CUSHING LANE, Secretary.

REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

To the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

I present below the report of the Librarian for the year ending December 31, 1923.

The close of the year just past marked also the end of my fifth year as Librarian. It rather naturally suggests a brief retrospect and summarization.

I was attracted to the position by the description on the part of the Trustees of the opportunities for expansion. Those opportunities have fully met my expectations, and I look back upon my stay in Quincy with more pleasant recollections than upon any equal period of my life. Coming here just at the close of the war, when people were anxious for something that would divert their minds, I found a community eager for books, but so widely scattered that one-half of them were beyond any adequate service from the library. Small branches were located as rapidly as they could be equipped, until six new ones were added to the two already functioning. The gratitude with which they were received in their respective localities and their subsequent use have been ample proof of their need.

I came to Quincy direct from a year spent in organizing library service in something over fifty different war camps. I consider that experience to have been invaluable, and it is here mentioned because of its bearing on my present position. The work was done under great pressure, where the element of time was of prime importance. The usual conveniences were out of the question, and at best the tools at hand were crude. I became convinced that an appalling amount of time is wasted in libraries, and that much energy is misdirected because of the survival of outworn methods. I have seen no reason to change my opinion in the light of subsequent experience. To-day we are operating six new branches and supporting a more than doubled circulation with a staff somewhat smaller than that in service five years ago.

For a long time there had been a desire on the part of the management of the library, as well as of the public, to throw open the bookstacks to the free use of the borrowers. The building erected more than forty years before, when conditions were very different, presented serious obstacles to the carrying out of the plan. It required months of planning and rearranging of the shelves to bring about the desired result. The greater freedom in the use of books has made the effort worth while. Added to that is the fact that now we can easily train the pupils of our public schools so that they are able to go directly to any book which they require. We now regularly instruct at the central building all the seventh and eighth grade pupils in fourteen of our seventeen schools. Four lessons in the use of the catalogue and reference books are given each class. The masters and teachers report a pronounced stimulus to all the work done in the schools, and seem as eager for the children to receive the instruction as we are to give it.

Since the war all public libraries are reporting increased losses through mutilation and theft of books. Though not as serious as in many cases, our experience has been the same. It is gratifying to report that of late these offences seem to be rather less numerous. Undoubtedly the throwing open of the stacks has increased the opportunities for the unprincipled. The losses, however, have never balanced the greater convenience to the public through immediate access to the books. Probably we could cut down the actual loss by more rigid supervision, but the saving would be effected at a cost far in excess of any possible saving that would be made.

The Browne system of charging books has some very decided advantages, but its disadvantages outweigh them when a library reaches a certain stage of growth. Our library had about reached that point, and its subsequent development would have been impossible without the change to the generally used Newark system. All staff members who were here when the change was made agree that an important forward step was taken.

An efficiency expert, who once dropped into one of our branches to procure a book, later took the trouble to write me a letter to say that he had never been in a library where he could go in as a stranger, get a book, and get out as quickly as in ours. We accept the soft impeachment. I know of no library that makes it as easy for the stranger to establish relations as does ours. Rarely is our confidence abused. And here again the benefits derived by the great mass of borrowers more than offset the occasional loss. I have seen no good reason to curtail our very liberal attitude toward the borrowing public.

The goal upon which I have constantly kept my eyes fixed has been to make of ours a true public library, with the emphasis on the word "public." That means a sense of obligation to every individual and to every group within our limits. We may not achieve at once our aim, but we can constantly work toward it. This aim makes us purchase considerable rather light reading for those of limited capacity as well as provide culture for the cultured. It gives us a sense of obligation to the accountant, the artisan and the housewife as well as to the boys and girls whose needs are so imperative.

In five years we have considerably more than doubled our circulation. Quantitatively we have reached the saturation point, when we can report 37 per cent of the population enrolled as borrowers and the circulation of 8 volumes per inhabitant. Any increase beyond that must be made at a cost that could not be justified under the peculiar conditions which prevail in our city.

In closing I wish to repeat and emphasize what I have said before. I doubt if any librarian has enjoyed more loyal assistance or happier relations with his staff. I do not see how any librarian could have a freer hand or more sympathetic encouragement than I have enjoyed throughout my stay at the hands of the trustees of this library.

Respectfully submitted,

TRUMAN R. TEMPLE,
Librarian.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

MAY, 1924.

To the Board of Directors, Woodward Institute, Quincy, Mass.

GENTLEMEN: — I am pleased to submit my first annual report (and the thirtieth in the history of the school) as superintendent of Woodward Institute.

Last September I assumed my new duties with a firm belief in the future of this school. With your hearty and unanimous support on every occasion my belief has become a conviction that those who sponsor this institution are in earnest to provide a school such as the will stipulates, — one second to none in the state.

The school is, at present, in a healthy state mentally and physically. Some things are necessary to both, however, to attain a higher degree of perfection. The morale of the student body is excellent, and the school spirit, as demonstrated during my short stay, is exceptionally good.

A crisis in the school's long and useful life was faced by your Board this year. Upon you was thrust a heavier responsibility than was ever put upon any preceding Board. Your decision to bravely meet the crisis, and to assume full responsibility, through the inauguration of a tuition charge, for the perpetuation of the legacy you have inherited at Woodward, will stand as an example of resourcefulness for future boards. It is gratifying to note your measure has received the ardent support of the public, with little or no opposition recorded from any quarter, — a good indication of the esteem in which the school is held in this community. Gentlemen, I sincerely hope that the money received from tuition will be expended as far as is possible and expedient for salary adjustments and increases. Good salaries and good teachers are inseparable companions. We want both at Woodward.

During the past year Woodward has experienced a few changes in both the internal and external life of the school. Among the internal changes a few might here be noted. The use of the large assembly hall as a study room has been discarded. This was done for many reasons. Its use as a study hall was an extravagance which cost the school yearly $300 in fuel, $200 in light, and would soon entail an expenditure of $1,000 in duplicating equipment unnecessary to the institution. Furthermore, after resurfacing the floor in this large room, an excellent auditorium for the social occasions so necessary to the life and health of any school was quickly and inexpensively provided.

The classrooms are now also home rooms, — an arrangement which puts a small number of pupils under the personal care of a home-room teacher. This establishes a closer relationship between teacher and pupil which reflects to the benefit of both.

An honorary society among the pupils was organized early in the year. The purpose here is to stimulate a keener interest in scholarship, which in turn is rewarded by special privileges to the members.

After a lapse of a few years the annual gymnastic exhibition at Woodward was re-established, with great interest manifested by pupils and public alike.

A lunch room for the benefit of pupils at recess periods was opened, and the patronage it has received has more than justified our expectations.

Our Friday morning assemblies have proven a great source of inspiration, and have been very popular with the student body.

The appointment of a dean of girls at the school has filled a gap which always exists where no such official is found.

In improvement of the property itself a great deal has been done. The rest room has been repainted and equipped with comfortable furniture.

Electric fixtures of modern design have been installed throughout the building. The chemical laboratory has been cleaned and repainted. Repairs have been made on the arch in the assembly hall, and the principal's office has been renovated. In addition a number of sanitary improvements have been made. The engineer of Woodward has co-operated splendidly, and through his efforts alone a handsome stage, equipped with footlights, has been built in the assembly hall. He has renovated the engine and boiler rooms, made numerous repairs, overhauled the engines, enclosed them all with a hood, painted them, and built a splendid workshop for school use. In addition he has aided materially in the planting of trees and shrubs on the grounds of the school, and at the gymnastic exhibition presented the school with a fine set of collapsible basket-ball standards. He has also made a number of fine flower boxes for the various classrooms, installed a radiator in the principal's office, and piped drinking water to all floors of the building.

The heating apparatus connecting Rooms 7 and 8 has been made adequate to supply the demands of the coldest weather. In the commercial department new typewriting desks and chairs, some new typewriters and a mimeograph have brought that department thoroughly up to date.

Gifts to the school the past year have included a fine oil painting of Dr. Woodward by the celebrated artist, Scott Carbee. Subscribing 100 per cent strong, the student body raised the money for the painting in three days. A very fine painting of Dr. Woodward as a young man was generously given the school by Mr. Nathan Packard. Other gifts include some pretty draperies for the rest room, curtains for eleven front windows, a handsome set of draperies costing $550 for the assembly hall, busts of Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt, casts of Wilson and Washington, and a beautiful plaster cast of "Aurora."

Gentlemen, I believe we are meeting the challenge of the will of Dr. Woodward. With your co-operation as generous in the future as it has been in the past the Woodward to come will approach closer and closer the ideal of its founder, — "a school as perfect and as well conducted as any in the state."

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM F. CARLSON,
Superintendent of Woodward.

Approved and accepted by the Board of Directors May 26, 1924.

REV. FRED ALBAN WEIL,
Chairman.

COURSES OF STUDY

General Directions

1. A pupil may elect any subject of her year, or the year preceding it, subject to the approval of the Head Master; but she may not elect a subject of a year in advance of her grade.
2. No pupil may drop one modern language to begin a second unless two years of the first have been completed.
3. For urgent reasons, and with the approval of the Head Master, a pupil may change from one course to another, without loss of grade, credit being given for work already completed. Choice of a course should have the most careful consideration of parents.
4. Pupils are advised to continue electives in one line of work rather than to elect superficially in several lines.
5. Each pupil is required to take at least four subjects aggregating sixteen periods of prepared work. Drawing, physical training, typewriting and art are rated at half the number of periods assigned to them.

6. Consultation with the Principal may be arranged by calling Granite 5610.

7. Quarterly report cards are sent home to parents. These cards are issued the first week in December, February, April, and at the close of school in June.

8. Sixteen units are required for graduation. A unit represents the completion of a year's work in any subject equivalent to four periods per week of prepared work (with the exception of Freshman English where one point is given for the six periods.)

9. Pupils credited with three units are promoted conditionally to the Sophomore Class; with seven units, to the Junior Class; with eleven units, to the Senior Class.

Woodward Institute is open only to Quincy-born girls. A liberal interpretation of "Quincy-born" is allowed but the letter and spirit of the will are not broken.

Candidates for admission to Woodward Institute must present themselves for written and oral examinations at the school at 9 o'clock on the first Saturday morning after the Woodward graduation exercises. Fifty pupils will be admitted from among those who take the examinations.

Written examinations in English, Arithmetic, History, Geography, etc., will be given at the above time. Pupils will be interviewed either before or after the examinations.

A tuition fee of $50 a year will be charged those who qualify and who enter in the September class.

A few free scholarships are open to promising pupils who would like to enter Woodward but who would find the tuition charge a financial burden too heavy to bear.

The Woodward Lower School, consisting of grades 7 and 8, has a separate schedule.

The School Committee desires to submit herewith its annual report for the year 1923.

Once again, the most important question before the Committee has been the completion of the new High School. It was our belief and earnest desire that this building would be ready for occupancy at the opening of the February term, but now we are informed that it will not be ready until the September term. The Committee has repeatedly urged the imperative need of this building, has made personal inspections of the work, and has attended a conference with His Honor the Mayor, contractor and subcontractors, in order that the construction of this building might be hastened.

It is the keystone of the entire question of school accommodation in this city, and the delay in its construction has caused a backing up and congestion in our school system. We have found it necessary to erect more temporary portable school buildings in the John Hancock-Lincoln districts to care for the increased number of children.

Average membership of pupils June 22, 1922	8,955
Average membership of pupils June 22, 1923	9,376

This shows the normal increase of about 5 per cent, while in our High School the average in 1922 was 1,428, and in 1923, 1,573, — an increase of about 10 per cent. A glance at these figures demonstrates quite clearly that our per cent of increase in the High School is twice as great as in the elementary grades. With these comparisons it is very evident why the School Committee adopted all means at its command to finish the new High School building as soon as possible.

We realize the need of an athletic field for the games participated in by our High School students. Through the generosity of Mr. H. M. Faxon, land adjacent to our plant was given to the city for athletic purposes. As yet, very little has been done to develop this field. We recommend that this land be filled in and prepared for an athletic field at the earliest possible moment, so that the properly directed physical training may go on hand in hand with the mental training.

The constructive ten-year building program has received our attention, and steps are under way for the purchase of land in the South Quincy and Norfolk Downs districts. Recently a request has been sent to His Honor the Mayor, recommending that plans be obtained for a junior high school in the South Quincy district. The new addition at the Massachusetts Fields School is well under way, so that the congestion in that district will be relieved in a short time.

Ever zealous for maintaining the standard of our teaching force at a high level, the School Committee has adopted this year a resolution requiring that our new teachers be graduates of a normal school or some equivalent training school. We believe this will react for the benefit of the schools, children, and city.

The Committee realizes full well the handicap under which our Superintendent, with his assistants and teachers, have been working. Insufficient accommodations have been largely responsible for it, yet the fine spirit of co-operation demonstrated by all has been admirable.

It cost the city about $750,000 to maintain the School Department during the past year. While the cost increases yearly, due to the normal increase of about 5 per cent in the number of school children, we feel that efficiency with economy has been the dominating factor in preserving the present high standard in our Quincy public schools.

The foregoing report, presented by a special committee consisting of Dr. Daniel B. Reardon and Col. Warren E. Sweetser, was adopted as the annual report of the School Committee of 1923.

FRED H. NICKERSON,
Secretary.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Committee of Quincy.

The aim of the following report is to present briefly such considerations as seem necessary to an intelligent understanding of the management of our schools from the point of view both of results secured and of economy in administration.

Conditions in General

In general, the conditions upon which good educational results primarily depend are unusually satisfactory in Quincy: (1) the citizens at large appreciate to an uncommon degree the community value of a first-class system of public schools, broad-gauged enough in the scope of its procedure to meet the needs of "all the children of all the people," and their representatives in the City Government have shown commendable willingness to make adequate appropriations to maintain such a system; (2) the School Committee is made up of men dominated by the purpose to manage the school interests of the city solely with reference to the best interests of the community; (3) the administrative and supervisory staff of the schools is organized on a thoroughly sound basis, and is given that degree of freedom in working out the policies of the Committee which is essential to efficiency; (4) our teaching corps has been materially strengthened during the past few years by the policy of filling vacancies with a larger per cent of experienced teachers than was the practice formerly, so that today the corps is stronger than at any previous time since I have been connected with the schools; (5) our school accommodations, which have been too cramped, will soon be improved by the completion of the new high school building and an addition to the Massachusetts Fields School building; (6) our first junior high school will be organized in the present high school building immediately upon the completion of the new high school building, thereby relieving somewhat existing congestion in some of the elementary buildings; and (7) a ten-year building program has been approved by the School Committee which, if carried out by the City Government, will enable junior high schools to be organized within the next few years in the southeast, southwest, and north sections of the city.

Occasionally one hears from individual citizens adverse criticism upon some feature of school procedure. Doubtless some such criticism is warranted, since no work planned and executed by human agencies can be expected to be perfect. I am convinced, however, that much of such criticism is due to failure on the part of the critics, either to grasp the large purpose for which our public schools are maintained, or to understand what is actually being accomplished in the schools.

The high standing of the Quincy schools in the estimation of the public outside our city is suggested by the fact that delegations of teachers from other communities are frequently visiting our schools to observe the work done here, many of whom state that they came upon the advice of the State Department of Education.

The greatest handicap under which the schools are now working is inadequate accommodations for our rapidly increasing school population.

The lack in this respect forces many pupils out of their districts to more distant schools; compels, in many instances, too many pupils to be assigned to one teacher; and prevents the desired early development of our proposed junior high school system.

Requests from the School Committee for additional land for the enlargement of two of our present elementary school buildings and for the erection of a new junior high school building have already been sent His Honor the Mayor, and it is hoped that action thereon may be taken in the near future.

For additional and more specific information regarding educational conditions in the schools, your attention is invited to the special reports of the supervisors of instruction in the primary and grammar grades, and the directors of music and drawing which may be found in Appendix A of this report.

School Costs

The total expenditure for the support of our Public Day, Evening, and Vacation Schools — i.e., for all purposes excepting new buildings, alterations, and permanent repairs — for the year ending June, 1923 (the latest date from which comparative figures are obtainable from the State report) was $629,360.90. Based on the average membership of the schools for that year this was an average expenditure of $67.12 per pupil.

Reference to the above-mentioned State report shows an average expenditure of $81.97 per pupil for the State at large, and of $83.51 per pupil for the 38 other cities of the Commonwealth. In other words, the cost for school support in Quincy for the year ending June, 1923, was less than that for the State at large by $14.85 per pupil, and less than that for the other 38 cities of the State by $16.39 per pupil.

Going a step farther in this comparison, it appears that if Quincy, for the past school year, had expended for each pupil in the average membership of its schools as much as was expended for the State at large, our school budget would have been larger than it was by $139,233.60; and that if, for the same period, Quincy's expenditure per pupil had equalled that for the other 38 cities of the State, our budget for school support would have been increased $153,672.64.

It is worth noting, also, in this connection that, while our per pupil cost for the year ending June, 1923, was 3.1 per cent larger than for the preceding year, the similar increase for the State at large was 4.9 per cent, and that for the 38 other cities was 6.4 per cent.

It appears, therefore, that, in comparison with other Massachusetts communities, the cost of public education in Quincy is being kept at a relatively low figure — so low, in fact, that one may fairly ask whether a larger per capita expenditure may not be wise economy.

Enrollment and Attendance

During the past school year 10,412 different pupils were enrolled in the regular day schools, and the average membership of those schools was 9,376. Comparison of these figures with similar figures for the preceding year shows an increase for the past year of 636 in the total enrollment, and of 421 in the average membership. Additional facts with reference to school attendance may be found in Table V, Appendix B.

Thrift Training

From the viewpoint of efficient citizenship, for which primarily public schools exist, one of the important phases of school endeavor is training in thrift. The most effective method for promoting such training with the pupils in our schools is to encourage them in the practice of systematic savings. This is accomplished in our schools through a system of school savings, in the operation of which we are assisted by the Quincy Savings Bank.

Through a carefully devised plan, worked out by the co-operative effort of the officials of the bank and the masters of the several elementary schools, pupils are given an opportunity weekly of making such deposits as they wish at the schools. Such deposits are carefully recorded and conveyed to the bank, where they are credited to the individual depositors.

The encouragement given pupils in this work by their teachers and the bank officials, the ease with which their deposits may be made, and the example of their schoolmates lead many young people to become regular depositors who otherwise would fail to develop this valuable habit of thrift.

This work began in our schools in October, 1908. During the fifteen years that it has been in operation the deposits of the children have reached the total of $169,487.87, — an average yearly saving of approximately $11,299.19.

During the school year ending June, 1923, there were 4,011 depositors in the schools, and the total deposit for the year was $26,733.80. Of these 4,011 pupil depositors, only 638 made any withdrawals, and the total withdrawn was $1,711.50, leaving a net amount of $25,022.30 for the year untouched in the bank.

Comparison of the above figures with those for the preceding year shows an increase during the past year of 639 in the number of depositors and $8,305.23 in the total yearly deposit. This indicates gratifying growth in the habit of saving among our young people.

When one considers, as I have previously suggested, that thrift is one of the fundamental factors in worthy citizenship, it is easy to see the value of the contribution that our schools are making through this work to social well-being.

Health Work

Physical well-being is another fundamental factor of efficient citizenship. It is, therefore, important that definite and intelligent effort should be made in our schools to develop in the thought and practice of young people an observance of those conditions upon which sound health largely depends. To this end the following means are employed in our schools:

1. An organized system of physical training is carried on throughout the schools under the supervision of two trained directors, who have proved their worth by the efficiency of their work.

2. Recognizing that considerable of the ill health which retards the progress of children in their school work, and cripples the efficiency of men and women in later life, is due to disorders of the teeth, two dental clinics are maintained in connection with our schools, one at the Daniel Webster School in charge of a dental hygienist, and one at the Coddington School in charge of a dentist.

The scope of the work of these clinics is suggested by the following facts: for the year ending December 31, 1923, there were 6,115 patients registered at the clinics, and 8,474 operations of one kind or another were performed.

It is impossible to evaluate the worth of this work to the future efficiency of those who were treated, but no intelligent person can doubt that it is a worth-while contribution to social well-being, and therefore properly a part of the program of school endeavor.

3. Another important means for the promotion of health work in the schools is that carried on by our school physician, with the assistance of three trained nurses.

The scope of the endeavor of this group of workers is suggested by the following facts:

During the past year 38,252 examinations of pupils were made for various causes; 1,077 home calls were made for consultation with parents upon conditions affecting the physical well-being of their children; 226 children were taken to clinics for the eye and ear; 140 cases of corrected vision were accomplished; and 214 operations for tonsils and adenoids were made upon advice of this department.

These figures do not cover the entire field of effort of these workers, but are sufficient to suggest the importance of their work to community well-being.

I desire at this time to commend the entire corps of workers in the field of health promotion for their devotion to the welfare of the boys and girls in our schools.

The Summer School

For the past three summers we have maintained summer schools for the benefit of pupils in grades VB to VIIIA, inclusive, who, for one reason or another, needed and desired special instruction in the major subjects of the curriculum beyond what it had been possible for them to secure during the regular school year.

The following tabulation gives the main statistical facts with reference to this school for the three summers of its existence:

SUMMER SCHOOL STATISTICS

GRADES	Year	Total Enrollment	Average Membership	Per Cent of Attendance	Total Cost	Cost per Pupil in Average Membership
VB to VIIIA, inclusive	1921	391	334.84	92.61	$1,425 98	$4 26—
	1922	417	364.52	91.60	$1,598 25	$4 38+
	1923	361	296.43	93.35	$1,517 06	$5 11+

The following interesting facts regarding the summer session of 1923 are taken from a report of the Supervisor:

Of the 361 pupils enrolled in 1923, 210 were seeking to gain a lost promotion; 139 were studying to remove handicapping conditions under which they had been advanced to a higher grade; 9 were reviewing subject-matter in which they were weak; and 3 were trying for double promotion.

Of the 210 seeking a lost promotion, 181, or 86 + per cent, succeeded; of the 139 studying to remove handicaps, 126, or 91 + per cent, succeeded; of the 3 working for double promotion none succeeded.

Among those seeking to gain lost promotion or to remove promotional conditions were 15 pupils, who had failed to secure diplomas of graduation from Grade VIIIA. Of this number, 12, or 80 per cent, secured their diplomas.

The foregoing facts not only justify the maintenance of this phase of our school endeavor, but also suggest the wisdom of its farther expansion.

The Academic Evening School

This school is maintained to afford persons beyond the compulsory school age, who are not in attendance at the regular day schools, the opportunity to secure additional training in the so-called academic subjects.

The enrollment at this school during the past season shows an increase of practically 32 per cent over that for the preceding season; and, what is more important, the quality of the work done has shown gratifying improvement over that of previous seasons.

Such improvement is due largely to the closer supervision of the administration and instruction of the school that has been possible through the employment of a supervisor of special activities, a portion of whose time is given to the direction of this school.

During the past season 321 different persons were registered in the school. The enrollment in the various courses was as follows: 164 for Typewriting, 111 for Business English, 105 for Stenography, 81 for Penmanship, 80 for Business Arithmetic, 75 for Mechanical Drawing, 66 for Bookkeeping, and 23 for Grammar School Subjects.

The High School

This school has been working for the past three or four years under a serious handicap due to overcrowded conditions that have annually grown worse. These conditions are so well known to the majority of our citizens that extended discussion of them is unnecessary.

At this time I desire to commend the head master of this school and his entire corps of coworkers for the patience and faithfulness with which they have labored during these trying years, and for what they have been able to accomplish for our young people under such unfavorable conditions.

The educational loss to the city from the unfortunate delay in the completion of the new high school building cannot be accurately determined, but that it is great is unquestionable.

No one appreciates this more than the school officials, who, by the provisions of the city charter with respect to the construction of school buildings, are powerless to prevent delay in this direction.

To my mind it would contribute to educational efficiency in Quincy if some means could be adopted whereby the construction of its school buildings might be taken outside the field of possible political complications.

For particular information upon the administration of the high school you are referred to the following report of its head master.

REPORT OF HEAD MASTER OF HIGH SCHOOL

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools.

I have the pleasure of handing you my twelfth annual report as head master of the Quincy High School. The comparative figures which follow will show that the school has continued to increase at a rather rapid rate. I believe a comparison with other high schools in the vicinity of Boston will indicate that our growth is faster and that our membership is already greater than in many cities of our size or even larger.

	1921	1922	1923
Whole number enrolled	1,425	1,596	1,753
Whole number December 1	1,389	1,550	1,691

The entering class in January, 1924, gave us a net gain of 151, making a total of 1,842 on February 1, 1924.

Since the new building is rapidly nearing completion, and within a few months we shall be relieved of the present congestion, I shall omit the usual reference to the tremendous difficulties under which we are struggling.

Probably few people realize how complex have become the activities of a modern high school. For this reason it may be worth while to give a brief, and by no means complete, summary of both curricular and extra-curricular activities of our own school.

The early high schools had for their real purpose preparation for college. This is a very important part of our own work, and the school prepares pupils adequately for all college, scientific schools, and normal schools. Last September, 52 graduates from this school entered higher institutions of learning after having received their complete preparation in the school.

But high schools long ago ceased to make college preparation their chief aim. Over half the pupils in this school are enrolled in the commercial course, where they are receiving training in bookkeeping, shorthand, type-writing, and English, — the definite tools of clerical work, with the added opportunity of acquiring a general education along the lines of foreign languages, science, history, and other branches interesting to the individual pupil.

A large number of boys are in the manual arts course which offers four years of instruction in woodworking and four years of mechanical drawing with both machine and architectural design. Ample opportunity is provided for allied mathematics and science in addition to more general subjects.

For the girls is provided scientific instruction in cooking and serving food, sewing, and millinery and applied design, together with allied science. Aside from the particular subjects noted above, this course of study is very general, catering to the special interests of the individual girl.

The above is a brief enumeration of differentiated courses of study in the school. Several lines of work, however, are offered to all pupils of the school so far as our accommodations will permit. Art courses of any type that will interest a group of pupils are given. Correlation of this work with the pupil's other studies is carried out to a large extent.

Music might be called a general course of the school because it reaches so many pupils. Besides three large choruses there are four glee clubs and two orchestras. Definite instruction in the theory of music is afforded by courses in harmony and musical appreciation. Moreover, for several years it has been customary for the musical organizations and picked chorus to give a concert during the spring term.

The present building has only one gymnasium, but so far as limited equipment allows, systematic physical training is carried on, being required of all pupils in first-year classes and elective for both boys and girls of other classes. Under direction of this department, the boys have football, baseball, basketball, and track teams, and participate in both interclass and interschool competition. The girls have basketball and field hockey teams with interclass competition.

The school is very fortunate in having means afforded by a private fund to maintain a school library. Here is offered an opportunity for reference work in connection with every department of the school under the guidance of a librarian and assistant. Class instruction in the use of a card catalogue and reference books is given in order that the pupil may quickly find desired material not only in the school library but also in the Public Library.

The lunch counter has become an important feature in the modern high school. In our own school it is under the immediate charge of the instructor in cookery, and is so conducted that pupils may secure a warm lunch practically at cost during their recess. Two-thirds or more of the pupils in the morning session avail themselves of this privilege. Pupils in the afternoon session are able to secure milk and sweet chocolate during a short intermission.

All the foregoing are too much under the control of school authority to be considered student activities. There are many lines of activity in the school, however, which are carried on by the pupils themselves, of course, with some guidance and advice from the teachers. The senior classes publish a school paper four times a year which contains literary articles of merit, as well as departments which reflect the life of the school. The young people furnish all the material for this paper, secure the means for publishing it, settle their own accounts, and have always had a balance to turn over to the head master for use in connection with some activity of the school.

The senior classes also every year present a play for the purpose of raising funds to defray the expenses of their social affairs at graduation. This is usually the gala occasion of the year, always a creditable performance from a dramatic standpoint and always splendidly supported by the school.

There are several clubs in the school, two of which deserve special mention. The Debating Club is an organization of about thirty boys from the upper classes who are interested in studying the art of debating. Besides debates conducted among themselves, they meet teams from several other schools during each year and have uniformly given good account of themselves. The Thalia Club is an organization of about thirty girls from the two upper classes chosen on the basis of high rank. This club has not only its social activities, but it also interests itself in definite needs of the school, and even attempts to do something along the line of social welfare in the community. Other clubs are composed of pupils especially interested in some subject, such as Spanish or science, who desire to go more deeply into the subject than is possible in the limited time of class periods.

Several times during the winter the two upper classes have had the use of the auditorium and gymnasium for social gatherings. These usually consist of an entertainment furnished by themselves followed by dancing. Occasionally these gatherings take the form of a reception to an athletic team of the school, and furnish an opportunity for presenting the insignia of the school to the members of the team.

Our crowded conditions produced some confusion when classes were passing, and slowed up the progress of the school somewhat. Accordingly, the traffic squad, made up entirely of pupils, was organized, whose duty is to direct movement of pupils while they are passing from class to class. This is a step in student participation in school government, and is interesting to watch, since it shows the ability of the pupils to control their fellows, and demonstrates the desire of the rank and file of the school citizens to be obedient to the authorities which they themselves have chosen.

The large size of the school and the small seating capacity of the auditorium have practically destroyed the efficiency of one very valuable school activity, — the school assembly. By crowding together, however, we have been able to give part of the school an opportunity to come together to hear speakers of wide reputation, and on one occasion to listen to a concert by players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra. At other times groups have met to get information on various vocations and on higher institutions of learning from speakers specially prepared to give this information. This assembly also furnishes an opportunity to arouse enthusiasm in coming athletic contests, and to give the pupils knowledge of the many activities of their own school.

This is a long and rambling account, I fear, but will interest some one, I hope. As I stated at the beginning, it is given for the purpose of showing how complex is the life of our high school pupils at the present day, and also, perhaps, to give an idea of how much a high school teacher has to be familiar with besides the subject which he is teaching.

In closing, I wish again to pay tribute to the wonderful spirit of helpfulness which has existed among pupils and teachers, and without which there could have been no degree of efficiency in the administration of the school. The School Committee and yourself have rendered every possible assistance and have shown the greatest consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST L. COLLINS,
Head Master.

State-aided Schools

There has been gratifying improvement during the past year in this field of our school endeavor. This is due primarily and to a considerable degree to the wisdom of the School Committee in supplying an assistant for the Superintendent of Schools. Obviously, the Superintendent, with the many calls upon his time and energy in a system of the size and scope of Quincy's school system, cannot give to this field of our school work that close direction that is needful for the best results. The help given by an assistant has resulted in a degree of increased efficiency in the work of our State-aided schools which, taken alone, amply justifies the increased cost for this addition to the school staff.

In addition to his supervision of all our State-aided activities, excepting the Americanization work, which is in charge of a special director, the present assistant, Leroy L. Woods, formerly master of the Government and Washington Schools, has rendered valuable aid in several other phases of the general administrative work of the schools, thereby freeing the Superintendent from some of the routine duties of his office, so that he may have more opportunity than otherwise would be possible for the consideration of the larger problems involved in our rapidly expanding school system, — problems that require careful and extended study if our schools are to function with maximum efficiency.

Special reports giving additional and more detailed information with respect to our State-aided activities — viz., the Industrial, Home-Making, and Continuation schools; the Evening Industrial and Practical Arts classes for men and women; and the Americanization work — may be found in Appendix A.

Conclusion

Much more than has been written might easily be said with regard to conditions in our schools. I believe, however, that careful reading of what has been presented in the preceding pages and in the several Appendices will convince the reader that the public school interests of Quincy, in spite of indicated handicaps, are being administered with a degree of efficiency and economy that should command the confidence of the public at large.

Respectfully submitted,

FRED H. NICKERSON,
Superintendent of Schools.

APPENDIX A

SPECIAL REPORTS

1. Report of Supervisor of Grammar Grades

Mr. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON: — For some years past it has been the custom to have our teachers, each year, focus their attention upon some particular phase of the school work. During the year just ended, each teacher was asked to select and record what she held to be the "minimum essentials" of each day's work in covering the present course of study in arithmetic, English, history and geography. These reports were sent to the office on Mondays, and for one month were read by myself. At the end of that time, fourteen committees, each committee composed of a chairman and four members, were named from the teaching force to take charge of these reports. Their work was to tabulate the "essentials" as found; to submit them for general discussion at meetings called for that purpose; and to make suggestions for the betterment of the present course of study. The reports of the results of the year's work have been returned. They are rich in content and suggestion, and offer a splendid workable nucleus for the revision or vitalizing of our present curriculum.

Colin Scott says: "Education is a work which is not confined to the schools. It is an undertaking which any individual may engage in to a greater or less extent. . . . The school as a special organization for education must fit into the rest of society, must supplement it where necessary, and learn from it on every side."

Through the courtesy and interest of Mr. Temple, City Librarian, every eighth-grade class in the city has had four lessons at the library on how to use it. These lessons were all given by Mr. Temple or his assistant.

In response to a request, both the Granite and Quincy Trust Companies very willingly made arrangements for a couple of classes, while "studying banking" to be shown through their places of business. This procedure seemed so very worth while to the officials that they are now arranging for other classes to have similar privileges.

This year the Christmas magazines, forty-five in number, made by the seventh-grade class of the Washington School, were given to the children in the Massachusetts General Hospital. The teacher of the class and three pupils, chosen by their classmates, took them in and distributed them to the children in the wards the Wednesday before school closed for the Christmas holiday. They also placed fifteen of these magazines in the scrapbook department of the hospital library.

In closing, I wish to thank the Superintendent for his confident support; my coworkers, the masters and teachers, for their loyal and helpful cooperation; and the girls and boys for their well-doing.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN MAUDE DELICKER,
Grammar Supervisor.

2. Report of the Primary Supervisor

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:— It is generally conceded that the work of the first four years lays the foundation of future work, and that a pupil's progress in the intermediate and advanced grades depends very largely upon the foundation that he gets in these early grades.

So thoroughly are the various teaching processes adapted to the child's instinctive interests and activities in the modern classroom that delight in learning and systematic progress go hand in hand. The attitude of mind developed by a subject is the matter of chief concern to the teacher. It is not the number of pages that is significant, but the kind of mental qualities developed. We consider teaching pupils the proper methods of study of more importance than the acquisition of any given group of facts. Attention is constantly being directed to increased effort and concentration upon work; and the necessity for excessive repetition, drill and examination is lessened by careful application of newly discovered psychological principles, especially in connection with the laws of attention and concentration.

"As an artist holds in his mind a tentative plan of his whole work, but rearranges and alters it as he is inspired to catch new phases of the subject which will fulfill his purpose, so the teacher must provide a tentative outline, but change and readjust the details as she discovers unexpected needs of her children." Diagnostic exercises and tests enable the teacher to recognize individual differences of pupils in her classes, and to group them according to their aptitudes.

For instance, in the field of reading, the child of today learns to read through doing, through games, through interpretation of directions and through motivated story-parties. In reading through doing, all the reading units are related to interesting things which the child is doing. He reads directions to find out what to do. Thus reading is associated with meaning. From the very first day of school the child learns to grasp ideas that are larger than mere words: as, "Good morning" instead of "good" and "morning." The children are furnished also with silent reading seat work for following directions. Reading is concerned with the thinking processes of the child, with the formation of proper habits, with the broadening of his experiences. Many activities of the primary years are connected with reading. It is correlated with conversation, geography, health lessons, language, penmanship, incidental numbers, nature study, history, dramatization, handwork, picture study, etc. Five weeks are devoted to pre-primer work. This is followed by a transitional period of two weeks to induct the children into reading of the primer. As the result of our present method of teaching reading, the children in our schools read from ten to eighteen readers the first year.

Through our national holidays we arouse patriotism in the school circle, recounting the words and deeds of men and women who have helped to make our country great.

The child is introduced also to the study of home and community life, this being the first step in a progressive study of social life which, continued through the grades, develops into the history, geography, and civics of later years. The first social unit studied is the home. In the first and second grades use is made of a furnished doll house, representing the home. A book-home is made by filling pages with cut-out furniture. In this book-home we find represented the various rooms that are found in a modern home. Magazines, advertising catalogues, seed and shrub catalogues, dressmaker's design books, and inexpensive Perry pictures furnish material for the decorations and furniture. Through the splendid work of our drawing supervisor the children are able to bring crayon into play in their book-home project.

A miniature farm is constructed in the sand pan. Transportation from the farm to the store and then to the home links up with the activities of the home. A reliving of primitive race experiences, without thought of specific locality or specific historical date, sets the stage for the work of the grades that follow. The children in the second grade are also introduced, through pictures and stories, to children of other lands. An Eskimo village is laid in the sand pan, and Indians are seen in their wigwams in a corner of the room reserved for that purpose.

The work of the third year is the study of the beginning of industrial and social evolution as typified in human progress through the early fishing, hunting, shepherd and simple agricultural stages. A reliving of these early experiences of the earth's peoples and of the beginning of the simple organization of early social and industrial living is the theme of these years.

One of the greatest civic needs of today is training for better citizenship. "The school should be the most potent influence for good, clean, honest living." Citizenship is most effectively taught to children by actual observation of the beauties, historic spots and commercial centers of the city, and through educational visits to stores and shops; and emphasis is placed upon faithful service rendered by the city officials, and, in turn, upon the child's obligations to the city in which he lives.

To learn the worth of money in the best sense and to acquire some skill in its management are other valuable lessons taught. Early in the child's experience, through projects, concrete problems, etc., he learns something of the value of money. He receives, in school, continual instruction in the wise adaptation of means to end; in careful handling of books and use of materials of whatever kind; in wasting nothing; and in repairing by his own effort, books that show signs of wear. All the small lessons in cause and effect growing out of these concrete things are unconsciously transferred by and by to other and larger matters. A series of arithmetic lessons on the expenditure in various directions possible to a given income, as presented in the school room of today, are more interesting to the pupil than learning dry and liquid measure. Here the project method of teaching, including problems within the child's experience, such as making butter, candy, lemonade, and buying and selling tickets for an entertainment, furnishes opportunity for experience. Each child is encouraged to have a bank account, however small. The children are taught to use the home savings bank; the value of saving for short periods and for special objects, — flowers and plants, and for educational trips, etc.

In developing correct spelling habits, the order of seeing words, hearing them pronounced, pronouncing them, spelling them aloud, using them in sentences, and writing them are found to be most effective. Each pupil has his own difficulties in spelling. He is encouraged to make private lists of the words which he finds especially hard to spell, and is urged to use extra effort to master these. These may be listed in the back of his individual notebook. Such words are watched for in the other written work and misspelling prevented rather than corrected.

Penmanship has passed through several stages in its methods of development in the classroom. The old Spencerian type was abandoned in favor of vertical writing. When vertical writing was introduced every pupil in every school class had to cast his former writing aside and habituate himself all over to write vertically. This was replaced by the so-called modified slant, and again every pupil in every school class had to abandon the vertical and slant his writing. In some communities the Palmer method still holds sway, and every pupil has to bow to its "majesty." Modern educators hold that there are some children whose handwriting is naturally vertical or slant, and that there is such a thing as individualization in handwriting as in other subjects. In the Quincy schools we stress legibility, and emphasize, in the classroom, the fact that it is the moral duty of each child to write so that his writing can be easily deciphered by the reader, and that "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well."

Such are some of the ends toward which we have been working during the past year in the Quincy schools, and such are the means through which we are bringing about the accomplishment of these ends.

Respectfully submitted,

ELSA SCHOSHUSEN.

3. Music

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON: — It is with pleasure that I submit the following report for the music department.

We are endeavoring to fulfill the aim of our public school music, that is, to appeal to the children through every musical channel possible, — namely, use of the voice; singing and reading; music appreciation or listening to music; and playing of instruments, — offered through class instruction at a nominal price per lesson.

Under the first means of approach, we are emphasizing the reading of music at sight with the words, beginning with simple songs in the third grade, with the hope that, as this plan develops, the boy or girl graduating from grammar school will be able to read and sing new music with the words and with proper interpretation. This is an attempt to get away from the sol-fa syllables. A new and interesting undertaking this year is the organization of uniform work for the eight grammar school glee clubs which have formed voluntarily in as many schools. In January a combined Grammar School Glee Club concert will be presented. All clubs combined will give Coerne's "Prayer of Thanksgiving," and each club will sing an individual number.

Under the second means of approach, a music memory contest is in preparation. A list of fifty compositions, with composers given, is in the hands of all teachers of the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. Preliminary contests will be given in the various buildings, and the final contest, when prizes will be offered for perfect scores, will occur late in March. In connection with this, prizes are offered for certain correlated work in English composition, drawing, pageantry, and dramatization. These prizes are offered by the Quincy Women's Club, and the judges will be selected from the same organization. The music department feels that this is an evidence of a much-desired contact with the community. To more strongly motivate the concert, a concert was recently given by the Boston Symphony Orchestral Club, a group of seventeen men from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the entire program being selected from the memory list. The children thus heard contest numbers and saw and heard many kinds of instruments.

Under the third means of approach, a great advance has been made. This new work has been accepted by the school authorities, and provision has been made for financial assistance in carrying on the classes. In September, 300 were enrolled in classes for various instruments as compared with 240 last year. At the present time 230 are still enrolled as compared with 145 last year. Over 200 are enrolled in the grammar school orchestras as compared with 125 last year.

The music in the high school is ready for a greater growth than is now possible because of the crowded condition. There are 1,050 enrolled in chorus singing, 93 in harmony and music appreciation, 14 are taking advantage of the diploma credit plan for outside piano study, 4 glee clubs and 2 orchestras are now organized on a class plan, and there are continued requests from the pupils for a high school band, which will be possible when there is time.

My strong hope and urgent suggestion for the future of our public school music is that the junior high school may not become the grave of music, as is sometimes the case, but rather the cradle; that we may foster and stimulate at this important time in the lives of these adolescent boys and girls a more serious and vital love for music.

I wish in closing to commend most highly the work which is being done by Miss Tuthill and Mr. Taylor, and to express my deep gratitude to you and to the members of the School Committee for the helpful and stimulating support given to me in my work.

Respectfully submitted,

MAUD M. HOWES,
Supervisor of Music.

4. Drawing

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:— I herewith submit my report upon the drawing work in the public schools of Quincy.

Professor Walter Sargent says: "Drawing is a language, a mode of reproducing ideas, and as such is a means of forming and developing these ideas. A child who draws does not set forth ideas already perfectly formed, but perfects them in part by the very act of setting them forth. Drawing thus becomes a tool with which to think."

In the drawing work in Quincy we are endeavoring to help each child to use drawing as a language by which he can express ideas. No longer is drawing considered a subject for the talented few, but as a means of expression for all. It is interesting to note that almost every child can do good work in at least one part of the drawing course. One child may excel in construction work, another in color, and so forth.

We do not strive for perfection in this work, but for results showing sound thinking and careful execution. Originality is encouraged, although the expression of it may be crude.

The children of Quincy have shown great interest in their drawing work, and by their close attention and industry have done some very creditable work.

It is my belief that all subjects studied in school should be overlapping and related one to the other as far as possible. Therefore the drawing course has been planned to cover a definite number of important principles for each grade, but with room to allow co-operation with other subjects. For instance, a class may be studying Japan, and the need will arise for a book cover design and illustrations for a book on Japan. At once the regular drawing work is dropped and all drawing principles are applied to working out the problem at hand. In this way posters were made for the Health Show recently held in Boston. Sometimes a sand table is under construction for geography or history, and figures or animals or buildings are needed to complete the scene. Here is a golden opportunity for practical correlation.

The drawing course is progressive and planned so as to cover the chief principles by the end of the sixth grade. The course is divided into the following parts: representation, color, design, and construction.

Representation is the expression of ideas or the recording of facts, either from memory or observation. To express ideas satisfactorily it is necessary to have a definite idea of how to draw common objects with some degree of skill. Consequently we start in the first grade to build up a vocabulary of shapes, — houses, carts, people, trees, etc., — adding each year more shapes and more skill in drawing, while in the upper grades perspective of these objects is studied.

The color course starts with the recognition of the six hues, recognition of the light and dark values of the hues, intermediate hues and their values, the meaning of intensity of colors, and the ability to match colors.

The design course consists of using simple shapes to carry out the principles of repetition and balance as applied to borders, surfaces, and single units.

The course in construction consists of measuring, cutting, and pasting problems, suitable to the ability of the grade, such as doll-house furniture, houses, objects for sand tables, envelopes, boxes, and simple bookbinding problems. This is a course which is very essential, but which crowds our other drawing subjects for time. If a special time could be allowed for this part of the work, as in some cities, conditions would be ideal.

For the happy conditions under which the drawing work is carried on, I have to thank the Superintendent for his generous support and the teachers for their efficient co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

AMY E. ADAMS,
Supervisor of Drawing.

5. Day Industrial School

Mr. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:—I herewith submit the twelfth annual report of the Quincy Industrial School.

Our total enrollment was 164, distributed as follows:

Electrical department	33
Machine department	32
Plumbing department	21
Sheet metal department	18
Woodworking department	60
	164

Our average enrollment was 128.05, our average attendance, 112.96, and our percentage of attendance was 88.4.

The prevalence of scarlet fever, mumps and grippe accounts in a large measure for our low percentage of attendance.

At our June graduating exercises we gave diplomas to 9, as follows: machinists 2, sheet metal workers 2, plumbers 4, woodworkers 1; and certificates to 18, as follows: machinists 5, electricians 4, sheet metal workers 1, plumbers 1, and woodworkers 7.

We feel that we have had a fairly successful year and have shown considerable improvement in all departments.

In anticipation of our entrance into our new quarters, I think it will be well to state the following facts.

The machine department, as at present equipped, has reached its student capacity. In order to enlarge, considerable new modern machinery should be installed. We hope to see the new machines direct-motor driven and up-to-date in every particular, since our graduates will be obliged to use such machines in the best shops. Should the department be enlarged, an additional shop instructor will be necessary.

The electrical department's greatest need, as at present constituted, is a light truck, and we hope that when the automobile repair department is established, such a truck can be procured and maintained at a small expense.

It seems to me that it is hardly wise to increase to any great extent the number of wiremen we graduate, and that any increase in the electrical department should be along the line of a power course.

The plumbing and sheet metal departments could be enlarged to twice their present size by the addition of an extra instructor for each department and a small amount of equipment.

In the case of the plumbing department, it seems quite necessary that it be done in order that the department function properly, as it is essential that a licensed instructor be present when much of the outside work is being done. Should the department be doubled up it could be conducted in much the same way as the electrical department at the present time.

There is little doubt that there is at present a scarcity of plumbers in the country, and that it will take several years to catch up.

Much of the machinery in the woodworking department was bought second-hand in 1914, and some of it should be renewed as well as several new machines procured.

The new building lends itself much more readily to the installation of direct-motor driven machinery than to the older type with overhead shafting and counter shafts, and in the long run the direct-motor driven is the least expense, as well as the up-to-date mode of operating.

Respectfully submitted,

ELIJAH P. BARROWS,
Director.

6. Evening Industrial School

Mr. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:— I submit the following report of the Evening Industrial School for the term of 1922–23.

Three classes were conducted as follows: sheet metal drafting, electrical wiring, and machine shop practice.

The classes started on the evening of October 9, 1922, and, with the exception of the electrical class, which was closed on January 4, 1923, for lack of attendance, continued to March 8, 1923, inclusive, giving us 40 evenings of actual attendance.

The classes were held on Monday and Thursday evenings of each week.

The registration, average membership, average attendance, and per cent of attendance was as follows:

Total Registration
Sheet metal drafting	28
Electrical wiring	18
Machine shop practice	16
Average Enrollment
Sheet metal drafting	16.2
Electrical wiring	10
Machine shop practice	8.65
Average Attendance
Sheet metal drafting	11.2
Electrical wiring	7
Machine shop practice	6.58
Per Cent of Attendance
Sheet metal drafting	69
Electrical wiring	70
Machine shop practice	76

Our registration included 9 tuition pupils, 6 in the sheet metal drafting and 3 in electrical wiring.

On account of lack of equipment, the machine shop practice class had to be limited to nine.

Insufficient light, largely due to the light absorbent nature of the walls, was a handicap in all departments.

When we get into our new quarters we hope to have larger and better facilities which should result in more and larger classes.

Respectfully submitted,

ELIJAH P. BARROWS,
Supervising Officer.

7. Home-Making School

Mr. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:— I herewith submit the seventh annual report of the Quincy Home-Making School.

The school began the year 1923 with 31 pupils, which number was increased on the first of February by 14. Of these, we lost 8 during the following five months. Many of these were forced to leave in order to obtain work to help in the support of their families. Eight girls completed the course, receiving their diplomas in June. The new class which entered in September made a total of 35 pupils.

The school has never had a more enthusiastic group of young people than at the present time.

Although we have attempted no entirely new project for the past year, we have by constant adjustment fitted the work more to the individual needs of the pupils, a large percentage of whom are so soon to be called upon to take up the responsibilities of life. The accomplishments in each department have been greater, due to more space and better facilities for work.

Respectfully submitted,
ELIZABETH M. DOUGLAS,
Director.

8. Continuation School

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON:—I herewith submit the fourth annual report of the Quincy Continuation School.

Since September 5, 1923, we have enrolled 104 pupils, — 77 boys, of whom 22 have been discharged, and 27 girls, of whom 6 have been discharged. Our membership at present is 55 boys and 21 girls, which is somewhat of an increase over that of the last two years for the same period.

The school has progressed very satisfactorily in the past year. In fact, I feel that we have made more progress during this period than in any other year since the school was organized. For one thing, we have done more placement of unemployed pupils than ever before; for another, we have recently added to the equipment of the boys' department sufficient material to broaden the opportunities for woodworking and also to allow the giving of short courses in metal and electrical work, shoe repair, chair caning, furniture refinishing, and drawing. The above work has a twofold object, — first, to give the boys an idea of the opportunities and peculiarities of different trades; and second, to teach them how to apply their acquired knowledge and skill toward the better maintenance of their homes. I feel that home-making is a subject of as much importance to boys as to girls. In regard to drawing, for those boys who so desire and who have the ability, we offer work in mechanical drawing, elementary sheet metal drafting, blue print reading and tracing, and sign lettering. It is to be remembered that we are not teaching these subjects upon a vocational basis. Furthermore, it is largely due to the broad experience and untiring efforts of the practical arts instructor, Mr. Dana B. Clark, that we are able to offer such a variety of work.

The work in the girls' department has progressed as well as usual, the same opportunities being offered as in former years, — namely, sewing, cooking, and the related academic work. We were very sorry to lose the services of Miss Julia Leamy this year on account of bereavement in her family. Miss Emily Hobbs of the high school faculty was secured to fill her position.

The desire is often expressed by many of the girls to take work in the commercial subjects, and although the number of pupils involved might be comparatively small, I feel that some opportunities to do this work would answer a real need. I would also like to give the girls some opportunity for instruction in home nursing.

I think it would give the pupils a greater interest in their work and create a desire for higher standards if they were granted certificates of attendance and satisfactory work upon completing a certain number of hours in this school.

This report would not be complete if I failed to mention and thank you for the friendly guidance and hearty co-operation which you have always granted us.

Respectfully submitted,
HARLAN L. HARRINGTON,
Director.

9. Practical Arts Classes

Mr. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON: — I herewith submit a report of the Practical Arts in Quincy for the year ending December, 1923.

The Practical Arts classes are separate day and evening classes in household duties conducted by the city for the benefit of any woman sixteen years of age or over. These classes should appeal to every woman in all walks of life, — the business woman, the busy housewife and mother, and the woman of leisure. These courses aim to teach women to become wiser spenders of incomes, so that they may conduct their home-making on as economical a basis as men conduct their business enterprises.

The dressmaking classes are planned to teach the processes involved in the construction and decoration of simple washable waists and dresses, children's clothes, and the renovation of old material. In conducting these courses, the teachers make use of the best fashion books of the day, and teach the students to adapt the patterns to their needs.

In the millinery classes all of the principles involved in the construction of hats are taught together with the art of handmade materials, and an appreciation of color, line, and form is developed. Conservation is the keynote of this course as well as of all others offered. The students learn to renovate old materials and discarded hats which often become objects of pride in their reconstructed form.

In the cookery course the underlying thought is the "meal." Combination of food values and methods of serving are studied in addition to the practical work of preparing the "meal."

In the home-nursing course both valuable and practical knowledge is gained in caring for the patient in bed and during convalescence. This course is given by Miss Marion Jackson, who has had several years of practical experience.

In all of these courses the women learn not only dressmaking, millinery, cooking, and home nursing, but they learn some of the underlying principles of a great democracy, — co-operation, social equality, and service. By means of the instruction received in these classes the members have been able to render valuable assistance to their neighbors and friends who were unable to attend the classes regularly, thereby rendering a valuable service to our community.

For the school year 1922-23, 773 women were enrolled in the various Practical Arts classes in Quincy.

In November, 1923, 697 women were enrolled as follows: 376 for dressmaking, 287 for millinery, 19 for home nursing, and 15 for cooking.

Thirty-six classes were organized in October, 1923. Fourteen of these were for millinery, twenty for dressmaking, one for home nursing, and one for cooking. During November an additional class in dressmaking was opened, making a total of thirty-seven classes in Practical Arts for the year ending 1923.

All but three of these classes are held in the public school buildings. They are distributed as follows:

SCHOOL	Millinery	Dress-making	Home Nursing	Cooking
Squantum	1	1	-	-
Quincy	2	2	-	-
Montclair	-	1	-	-
Francis W. Parker	1	3	-	-
Wollaston	2	2	-	-
Home-making	2	-	1	-
Government	1	1	-	-
Adams	2	3	-	-
Lincoln	-	2	-	-
Willard	1	1	-	-
High	1	2	-	1

Centers that are organized in buildings other than the public schools are as follows:

BUILDING	Millinery	Dressmaking
Adams Academy	-	1
Houghs Neck Library	1	1
Malnati's Hall	-	1

Any woman sixteen years of age or over may become a member of the class by paying a registration fee of $1. This fee is returned at the end of the term, provided the person has attended 75 per cent of the sessions.

All classes opened the week of October 8 and will continue until the middle of April or the first of May. Each class will average twenty-five weeks of work consisting either of two two-hour periods or one three and one-half hour session each week.

The teachers employed for these classes are women who have worked at the trades at least four years, and who have taken teacher training courses with the State. They are also actively engaged in their trade or profession at the time they are employed to teach. This preparation assures to the students practical instruction of high grade. Fifteen such teachers are employed.

Instruction is given by means of short unit courses. Through the adoption of this system a great variety of opportunities is opened. Specific needs of the individual are met; pupils may enter the classes at frequent intervals; interest of the pupil is sustained for a longer time; and the work can be kept on a vocational basis.

The following figures compiled from the State report in June, 1923, show the amount of work accomplished by the classes during the last school year. In the dressmaking classes $5,051.76 worth of material was used in making garments valued at $13,476.23, — a saving of $8,424.47 to the women. In the millinery classes $6,419.83 worth of material was used. The finished hats had a commercial value of $14,888.32, — a saving of $8,468.49.

The immediate gain can be easily calculated in estimating the market value of the well-made garments and hats, but the remote value of the knowledge and skill which can be applied to future problems cannot be so easily estimated. Neither can the economical value of this instruction received nor the social value of it be evaluated in terms of dollars and cents.

Respectfully submitted,

LEROY L. WOODS,
Supervisor of Special Activities.

10. Americanization Work

MR. FRED H. NICKERSON, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, Mass.

MY DEAR MR. NICKERSON: — It is with pleasure that I submit to you my annual report of the Americanization work.

Thirty-three classes, with a total enrollment of 680 pupils, were held this year. Nine of the classes — eight home classes and one special citizenship class, organized in April and continued until the close of school in June — were taught by the Supervisor.

Nearly a score of different nationalities were represented in the classes.

Classes were held in the Daniel Webster, Lincoln and Willard Schools, Finnish Halls, Chamber of Commerce, Pneumatic Scale Plant, Commercial Trading Company, Fore River Plant, Quincy Point Library, and in the homes.

Two hundred and forty-seven students received certificates, seventy-two of which were Federal citizenship certificates awarded to petitioners who successfully passed the educational examination given by the Federal naturalization clerks.

Six members of the special citizenship class, of as many different nationalities, were examined at a "class demonstration" at the Parker House, Boston, before a group of distinguished people, including lawyers, judges and educators, by Mr. Farrell, chief naturalization examiner. It was a hard ordeal, but the men received enthusiastic applause from the intensely interested group for their splendid knowledge of the history and government of this country.

It is quite surprising how quickly the majority of the students gain command of the English language.

Five library parties were held, and the members of the Americanization committee of the Quincy Women's Club, under the direction of Mrs. Handy, chairman of the Americanization committee of the Quincy Federation of Women's Organizations, were hostesses and served refreshments.

The pupils loaned many articles and assisted at the International Exhibition held in February, under the supervision of Mrs. Handy and her committee.

Graduation and citizens' night were combined this year and held in April. Mr. Albert L. Barbour, formerly Superintendent of Schools in Quincy, and Mr. Charles M. Herlihy, State Supervisor of Adult Alien Education, gave short addresses commending the pupils on their splendid work, and urged them to be at all times true and loyal to America.

All the pupils were presented with small silk American flags by members of the Americanization committee of the Wollaston Woman's Club, under the direction of Mrs. Handy. Members of the American Legion assisted in the program.

Just before the close of the exercises, a dramatic moment was reached when the Supervisor, in behalf of the classes, presented to Dr. Hunting, vice-chairman of the School Committee, a beautiful silk American flag to be placed in the School Committee rooms at the new high school, — a freewill gift showing in a small way the appreciation of all the pupils for the splendid help they have received in the schools. Dr. Hunting responded feelingly in a few fitting remarks.

Miss Jackson, one of the school nurses, gave two talks on "Health and Personal Hygiene" to all the classes. She spoke of contagious diseases and told the pupils how very necessary it was for every one to obey the laws of the Board of Health. Splendid results have been obtained, and another year we shall try to give even more attention to this phase of the work.

The teachers, every one a trained teacher, are co-operating with the Supervisor in every possible way to make this work vital.

The masters of the schools have helped greatly in announcing the classes and giving assistance whenever possible.

The School Department has the splendid co-operation of the Federation of Women's Organizations, Library, Clergy, Chamber of Commerce, North American Civic League, factories, foreign language societies, and many other organizations and individuals. Together, we are trying, first, to make the pupils feel that this is a country of freedom,—freedom under the law; that every man and woman must do his work well, ever being true and loyal to America and American ideals; second, to wipe out illiteracy in Quincy, both of the native born and foreign born.

Respectfully submitted,

NELLIE A. PERRY,
Supervisor of Americanization.
